Ending Poverty Costs Money

MILLIONS of newspaper words, thousands of tons of white paper, barrels of ink and innumerable pictures let you know that, with "Dizzy" Dean pitching, the Cardinals, National League baseball team of St. Louis, beat the Tigers, American League team, by a score of 8 to 3.

Played in Detroit, with nearly 50,000 paying admission, the game created a crush at the entrance to the baseball grounds that delayed the start 21 minutes.

Elsewhere you will read all details, elaborate descriptions of "Dizzy" Dean, young player with a serious face, who has won 30 games, lost only seven this season, leading in games won, "strikeouts," "shutouts," etc.

Of 123,000,000 people, 99 per cent of all old enough to understand baseball are more interested today in "Dizzy" Dean than in the President of the United States, all Europe's dictators and all American professors put together.

And there is no mystery about it. Ball players hit a small ball with a club, then run. Our ancestors of the caves did that, a million years ago, with the branch of a tree and a round stone. We like to do what our ancestors have always done.

That is why men go fishing and think they enjoy watching a cork, and hunting, often tramping fourteen hours to get a ten-cent rabbit. That was bred in them by ancestors, who did not eat unless they caught a fish or killed an animal.

Nothing you could mention would interest America as much as "Dizzy" Dean's expression as he let the ball fly from his right hand.

Mr. Bilbo, from Mississippi, determined when senator to "make more noise than Huey Long, and raise the same kind of hell as President Roosevelt." Hauptmann, accused in the Lindbergh kidnaping; Bobby Edwards, accused of murdering a young girl, knocking her on the head while she was in the water, and all other news is dull to Americans eagerly watching what Ring Lardner called "The World's Serious."

The World Series is not a propitious time for talking about such things as "the universe" and how it is managed.

Nevertheless, you must know that Professor Millikan modifies his cosmic theory somewhat. He tells scientists in London that cosmic rays rolling through all space, passing through your body in a steady wave as you read this, cause the death of what we call matter, as well as creating new matter, new electrons, atoms, molecules.

British scientists and the American Millikan disagree. The British, Jeans, Eddington and others, say "the universe is running down like a clock," and by and by it will stop.

That would be discouraging for those that have been promised life eternal.

Professor Millikan says for your comfort that the universe is building itself up as fast as it runs down, on a perpetual motion and growth basis. Everybody would want to read what Professor Millikan says about his important new "photon theory."

Without the "photon theory," cosmic rays, to overcome atmospheric resistance, would re-

HAUPTMANN'S HOME YIELDS N. J. MAPS

By International News Service

New York, Oct. 4—New Jersey and Massachusetts maps, showing the region in the vicinity of the former Lindbergh home in Hopewell and the area around Buzzards Bay, Gay Head and Elizabeth Island, Mass., were found in a trunk belonging to Bruno Richard Hauptmann, District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx disclosed today.

Hauptmann, when questioned about the roads and towns near Hopewell, described them "with remarkable accuracy," according to Foley.

Gay Head and Elizabeth Island were mentioned in the fifteenth ransom note sent in the Lindbergh case. Its was received after the $50,000 ransom had been handed to a supposed representative of the kidnapers and read:

"The boy is on boad Nelly is is a small boad 28 fet long two person are on the boad the are innosent. You will find the boad between Horseneck Beeach and Gay Head near Elizabeth Island."

The word "boat," spelled "boad" throughout the note, evidently was one of the small words to which Foley referred in his statement regarding the finding of the dictionaries,, and the incorrect spelling of some of the smaller words in the ransom notes.

Nine Eglish-German dictionaries were also found in Hauptmann's effects. The district-attorney said he thought Hauptmann made use of these dictionaries in penning the ransom notes.

Meanwhile another ransom note

Father of ChurchBoy Indicted

Frank E. Graves, orchestra leader and self-styled "Jazz King," of Albany, N. Y., was indicted today for child abandonment by the Suffolk county grand jury.

In an indictment returned to Judge Louis E. Cox, in Superior Court, the musician is charged with abandoning his seven-year-old son, Raymond, in the Holy Cross Cathedral on the evening of September 23.

The boy, for 10 days a "mystery boy" and unable to identify himself, because of a speech impediment, was brought by his father over the road to be left in the church, according to a confession declared by police to have been made by Graves.

If Graves does not fight extradition, Sergeant Joseph Fallon of South End station will go immediately to Albany to bring him here, but if he fights, extradition proceedings will be started.

EX-WHITE SOX HEAD DIES HERE

James J. Callahan, 60, of Chicago, former manager of the White Sox, was found dead in bed in the Parker House today.

Death was due to natural causes, according to the medical examiner. He was a native of Fitchburg.

Pulaski Day, Oct. 11

Governor Ely, in a proclamation issued today, set aside Thursday, October 11, as Pulaski Day, in commemoration of the 155th anniversary of the death of the Revolutionary War hero.

GIRL KEY IN SPOT KILLING NOW SOUGHT

A love feud over the affections of a pretty Boston girl led Louis Girgo, North End baker, to his death in the Wilmington "spot murder," according to Sergeant John T. Clifford of the Boston police.

Clifford made this statement today while state detectives were working on gang war and racket theories.

Two Wilmington women and a garage owner, according to police, have partially identified five men, arraigned for questioning, as men who were seen near the place where Girgo was found.

Sergeant Clifford who turned his clues over to State Police, said he had definite knowledge of a bitter war between Girgo and another man for the girl's hand.

The girl is known to police and orders to pick her up for questioning have been issued.

With utmost swiftness, developments in the slaying piled up today. While all the men held for questioning denied knowledge of

2 Burned in Yacht Fire Swim Ashore

Fairhaven, Oct. 4—Raymond Woodhouse, 19, and Phyllis Dews, 19, both of South Dartmouth, were severely burned today, but saved their lives by swimming ashore after an explosion had started a fire on the yacht Mistral, anchored in the harbor.

Woodhouse, a member of the crew of the yacht, owned by Mrs. Henry Ross, summer resident of Nonquit, attempted with the girl to battle the flames, but they had gained too much headway.

Residents near the harbor called firemen, who extinguished the blaze after a damage of $8000 had resulted.

3 Held as Owners of Burglar's Tools

Three young men arrested early today outside the Elks building in Newton were later held for the grand jury on charges of possessing burglars' tools. They are Melvin L. Willett, 26, of Merrimac, and Raymond F. Ennis, 26, and Frank M. Whitcomb, 23, both of Baldwin street, Lynn.

Police allege they found a pinch bar concealed in Whitcomb's trouser-leg and, in a car occupied by Willett and Ennis, a blackjack, flashlight and knife.

Ruth Chatterton Freed From Brent

Los Angeles, Oct. 4 (AP)—Ruth Chatterton was divorced today from George Brent, the stalwart Irish actor, 10 years her junior, whom she married two years ago on the day following her Nevada divorce from Ralph Forbes.

The second romance of the famous star of stage and screen lasted only a year and six months.

Blast Victim Dying

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 4 (INS)—Nathan Dysson, 36, factory hand, was dying this afternoon at New Haven Hospital following a gas explosion at the Petrelli Manufacturing Company plant. The blast blew out all factory windows.

Cheered Then Booed

Ernest Orsatti provided the punch that sent the Cardinals off to an early lead in the second game of the World Sreies against the Tigers today. His triple down the third base foul line scored Catcher Delancey with the first run in the second inning. The opposing hurlers were "Wild Bill" Hallahan and "Schoolboy" Rowe. Then the same Orsatti, in an effort to make a shoestring catch off Rogell's blow in the fourth, let the ball go for two bases. Rogell later scored the Tigers' first run.

Navin Field, Detroit, Oct. 4—A grim and snarling pack of Detroit Tigers took the field against the St. Louis Cardinals determined to avenge the defeat in the opening game of the World Series and square the count at one-all before heading for St. Louis and the third game of the classic.

Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Tigers sent Schoolboy Rowe, youngster who won 16 straight games during the Detroit American League flag surge, to the hill. The tall right hander worked out smoothly and apparently was ready to use every bit of his great mound talent to check the slugging Cardinals.

Pilot Frank Frisch pinned his hopes on the long left arm of Wild Bill Hallahan, seasoned pitching notable.

There was a different attitude on the part of the Tigers and Cards today. The Tigers, yesterday, gay and frolicking, had forgotten every bit of fun and were tending strictly to business.

CARDS HAPPY

The Cards, yesterday a trifle more businesslike than the Tigers in pre-game workout, were fooling around, joking and seemingly sure they'd win the second straight game of the series and head for home with a two-game advantage.

A bright sun tempered the icy breeze that whirled through the field, causing fly balls to skate downward at queer angles and making the gardeners' tasks more than difficult.

While the pre-game jam outside the field among the customers was lacking today, there were more than 40,000 fans inside the orchard at game time, and a steady stream of late comers indicated a near capacity attendance.

Pepper Martin, first man to face Rowe, filed out and Jack Rothrock was tossed out by Gehringer in short order to open the battle. Manager Frisch was next up and he set a good example to his mates by slashing a snappy single off Owen's glove. However, Joe Medwick, hitting hero of the opener, took a called third strike and the session was over.

ERROR JINX THERE

The error jinx lifted its ugly head among the Cards in the Tigers' half of the first. With two down, Gehringer chopped the ball at First Baseman Jimmy Collins and his toss was muffed by Pitcher Hallahan, who was covering first. Martin threw out Greenberg for the third out, so the misplay wasn't costly.

The Cards rolled into the lead in the second. With one gone, Catcher Delancey caromed the ball off Gehringer's shin for a single and scored on Orsatti's triple to left. Leo Durocher popped out and Hallahan filed out to end the chapter.

A single by Goslin was the sole Tiger gesture in the second. Delancey put out the next three Tigers, Catching fouls by Rogell and Fox, and getting the other killing when Owen was called out on strikes.

The second Cards run came in the third, when Martin singled, advanced on Rothrock's sacrifice, and scored on a single by Medwick, who went to second on the throw home. Collins singled and Medwick was out at the plate on Goslin's heave to Cochrane.

The Tigers muffed a fine scoring chance in the third, when, with two down, Cochrane walked, took third on Gehringer's single, and the pair were stranded as Hank Greenberg swung at a third strike.

Play-by-Play of Second Game

FIRST INNING

SECOND INNING

ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

THIRD INNING

FOURTH INNING

TIGERS—Goslin shot a liner off Hallahan's glove and was thrown out by Durocher. Orsatti misjudged Rogell's high fly and it went for two bases. Frisch threw out Owen, Rogell taking third. Fox doubled over third scoring Rogell. Rowe struck out. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

FIFTH INNING

CARDS—Hallahan struck out. Rogell threw out Martin. Rothrock lined to Gehringer. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS, NONE LEFT.

Fervid Notes Read to 'Tragedy' Jury

Special Dispatch to Boston Evening American

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Pa., Oct. 4—The 172 "Purple" love letters of Bobby Edwards to Margaret Crain were admitted into evidence by the court at the "American Tragedy" murder trial today.

Judge William Valentine said their contents would be "controlled" and only such portions stressed as alleged "a motive" for the alleged crime.

Scores of the passion-laden epistles were read to the jury.

Edwards signed himself "Buddy" and addressed Margaret Crain as "Mamma."

He studed his phrases with reiteration of his etternal love. He spoke of their marriage, "next year or even sooner."

TRYST KISSES BARED

He referred to their "tryst kisses."

Edwards also called Margaret "Blessed Wife" on his letters and sometimes signed himself "Your Husband."

Those expressions were stressed by the prosecution in its attempt to show the missives contained the "motive" behind the murder of Freda McKechnie, who was to become a mother.

Here are some excerpts from the

DILLINGER CASH TO 2 POLICE

By Associated Press

Washington, Oct. 4—Attorney-General Cummings today authorized payment of $5000 of the John Dillinger reward money to Captain Timothy A. O'Neil and Sergeant Martin Zarkovich of East Chicago, Ind., police.

The payment is for information leading to the capture of Dillinger, who was shot when leaving a Chicago picture theater several weeks ago.

A reward of $10,000 offered for the actual capture will not be paid as Dillinger was shot by Department of Justice agents.

Announcement of payment of the reward was coupled with disclosure that plans have been made for closer integration of the work of Justice Department agents with the state's attorney of Cook County, Illinois (Chicago).

EDWARDS' LETTERS CALL OTHER GIRL 'MAMMA'

"Keep your lips soft and wet for m."

"Oh, Blessed Darling, oh, Moment, I am loving you more and more until it hurts."

"I always want to do everything for you."

"No one but God can separate us. I love you more than life. If I ever lose you, I will surely die."

WRITES OF MARRIAGE

Another said in part:

"I hurt, I'm so sorry over the phone. Believe me, darling wife, I love you, blessed, truly I do. I love the letter I got. X X X I do think back to those school days, Mamma. Yes, it is to be next year, our marriage."

One letter began: "Sweetest angel, wife."

Another: "My goddess, my wife."

A leter said, 'and our love and posession of each other is growing stronger every day, mama."

In another letter Edwards said "Don't plan anything expensive over the wekend, I haven't got my pay yet x x x Your devoted and true husband."

Another:

"My beloved wife . . . things have been different since our blessed Elmira date, haven't they? Your love will always be growing, won't it, Mama, darling dear?"

March 9—"Dearest Mama, I adore all of you. . . I worship you; you are perfect. . . No matter where I am, you are always with me. We are surely one more than any couple have been. . . . I love to hear you talk, so don't mind when I kid you about talking so much."

CALLS TRYSTS BLESSED

Another began: "Blessed darling. Tomorrow we make our plans for next year . . . We'll have our blessed nine trysts together. . ."

Daniel Edwards, the accused youth's father, sat with closed eyes behind the defense table. Edwards slouched motionless, apparently oblivious to John Phillips, one of his attorneys, who whispered to him.

CROWDS STORM COURT

The possibility that the contents of the love letters would be read in court drew another crowd to the Luzerne county court house, and recurrently state troopers were forced to clear from the doors those persons who did not possess tickets of admission.

Other letters read:

"Hello, Dear Wife: How much do you love me? I love you, ah, Moment, please tell me you can see my love.

"8:30 a. m., I love you.

"10:30 p. m., oh, Moment, I love you."

"Your love notes to me are the big spot in my day, Moment, beloved. I need you, dear. If we could only play in the snow."

"Last Sunday was sweet, and how you loved me. Soon all Sundays will be sweet."

SAW GIRL IN PRAYER

"I just finished our blessed trysting. I prayed hard and saw you in all your glory.

"I adore you. I intend to love you through all eternity. I worship you dear, you are my goddess."

"I am loving you, mind, soul and body. God gave you to me and I intend to cherish you always."

"Let's do our tryst kises on paper when we are apart. They are not as nice as the real thing, but it is next best."

POOL MEN IN THEFT KNOWN IS BELIEF

Albert F. Kibble, 24 year old teller in the First National Bank, who admitted taking $10,000 in depositors' money to "beat" the "nigger" pool made a new confession to officials today. It is believed he named those to whom he gave the money.

Details of the confession which was signed by Kibble in the office of United States Marshal, after he had been grilled for hours, were not immediately made public.

It was learned that at first Kibble had been successful, but then began to lose. As weeks passed, his losses mounted. In a desperate effort to recoup these losses, he plunged deeper, pyramiding bets each day, according to officials.

His last bet, he told the authorities, was $1500 placed in August, on the first number of the pool. He lost, he told the authorities, and then stopped.

When he was arrested he informed the federal secret service men that he fully expected their arrival at the bank. He said that, even after stopping his thefts from the bank deposits, he knew an audit would disclose defalcations. He then frankly told the officials of his thefts.

When Kibble was approached by a Boston Evening American reporter as he left the Federal building to return to his cell in the East Cambridge jail, pending trial in Federal Court, he said:

"I guess I haven't very much to say now. I am sorry I did it."

U. S. STUDYING OCEAN MAIL CARRIERS

By Associated Press

Washington, Oct. 4—The postoffice department opened exhaustive hearings today which it hopes will point the way to an annual savings of at least $10,000,000 in carrying Uncle Sam's mail abroad.

Ordered by Postmaster-General Farley, upon direction of President Roosevelt to show cause why their contracts "should not be modified or cancelled," 32 ocean mail and four foreign airmail carriers will be questioned on the use they have made of the $32,000,000 a year the government has been paying them.

Most of this outlay—$312,684,394 for the steamship companies alone under their 10-year contracts—is admittedly subsidies for developing the American merchant marine and foreign air service.

When it is considered virtually certain some sort of subsidy for those purposes will still be provided, there is a strong move to divorce it from the mail carrying expense.

Thus the postoffice department estimates that where as it cost more than $26,000,000 last year to have its mail dispatched on ships, the cost would have been only around $3,000,000 on a straight-out weight basis.

Today's hearing, before Solicitor Karl A. Crowley and other postal officials, was devoted chiefly to organizing for the weeks of testimony taking.

The projected remoulding of the ocean-foreign airmail machinery follows last winter's spectacular shake-up in the domestic airmail service. Farley has said that around $9,000,000 a year is being saved as a result of that move.

2 ADMIT PLOT TO KIDNAP HEIRESS

By Associated Press

Wheeling, W, Va., Oct. 4—Frustration of a plot to kidnap Betty Bloch, 24-year-old daughter of a wealthy Wheeling tobacco manufacturer, and arrest of two men for the conspiracy was announced today by Department of Justice agents.

The men under arrest are Harry Thornton, clerk in a haberdashery, and Thurman Bowen, a semi-professional football player. Agents announced both men had admitted they conspired to kidnap Miss Bloch and hold her for $25,000 ransom.

Miss Bloch, whose father heads the Bloch Brothers Tobacco Company, is to be married Saturday.

Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner John Kindleberger, the men were held in $50 bail each and remanded to jail on charges of conspiracy to kidnap.

Bridgeport High Strikers Return

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 4 (AP)—Less than one-third of the 187 Central High school students suspended for their participation in the strike against the present class schedule have been permitted to return to their studies, Principal James C. Moore said today.

About fifty students, whose parents conferred with Principal Moore, have been reinstated. Bassick High school students, warned to attend classes or be suspended, all returned to school Principal Joseph E. Jeffery said.

Boy Hunting Food for His Hungry Dog Is Shot

Chicago, Oct. 4—Fourteen-year-old Charles Verba's shaggy mongrel, Brownie, was hungry, but there was little food for the Verba family and none for Brownie.

So Charles went down by the railway track to find a bone for Brownie. Behind a shack near the tracks he found a morsel for the dog; from a shack near the tracks his brother saw him pick it up.

At the County Hospital, physicians told Charles' mother that the shot pierced his lung. They simply looked the other way when she asked if they could save Charles' life.

MRS. FIELD III REPORTED IN RENO

Marital Rift Rumors Have Been Current for Months

English Beauty Said to Have Flown to Nevada City

(Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service)

Chicago, Oct. 4—Mrs. Marshall Field, III, the former Mrs. Dudley Coats of London and wife of the grandson of Chicago's first great merchant prince, is in Reno, it was learned today from an authoritative source despite a conflicting report in New York that Mrs. Field sailed yesterday for Paris aboard the Aquitania, according to the Chicago Herald & Examiner.

Her arrival there follows rumors of a martial rift recurrent in fashionable circles for several months, but vehemently denied by Marshall Field, III.

FLEW TO RENO

The beautiful English woman, who was Audrey James before her first marriage to Dudley Coats, flew through Chicago on a United Air Line plane Tuesday night. Traveling under an assumed name, Mrs. Field left the plane at Reno for a residence nearby, that she is reported to have engaged.

Officials of the air line said that their records did not show that Mrs. Field had been a passenger and declined to identify the plane that carried her through Chicago. From authoritative sources it was learned that she disembarked yesterday from a United Air Line plane at the Reno airport.

LIVED ALONE

MRS. MARSHALL FIELD, III.

Marshall Fields III, and Mrs. Coats, famous international beauty, were married in London on Aug. 19, 1930. On their honeymoon they went to Africa and shot lions for the Field Museum in Chicago.

Mrs. Fields III was a member of the Prince of Wales' set in London. She is a daughter of Mrs. "Willie" James, a famous hostess. Her brother, Edward James, recently won a divorce from Tillie Losch, Hungarian dancer.

Mrs. Marshall Field Booked on Sea Liner

By Universal Service

New York, Oct. 4—The name of Mrs. Marshall Field appeared on the list of passengers who sailed yesterday afternoon from New York for England on board the Aquitania. She was listed as to occupy cabin 62. But when reporters sought to interview her they found the cabin door locked.

A Mrs. Marshall, who said she was a relative, assured them, however, that Mrs. Marshall Field was aboard and sailing.

PRINCE AND MARCHIONESS RUSH TO AID MRS. VANDERBILT

EX-KAISER'S KIN IS COMING TO 'FIGHT MUD IN U. S.'

By Associated Press

Langenburg, Germany, Oct. 4—Prince Gottfried Zu Hohenlohe, kinsman of the former kaiser, named in New York testimony as an intimate of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, stated today:

"I have decided to go with my wife to New York to clear my name. I am not going to let people sling mud at me."

The Prince intimated that he intended to sail for New York on the S.S. Bremen October 9.

"I'll Back Her to Bitter End" Says Lady

By International News Service

London, Oct. 4—Her lips quivering with emotion, almost in tears, the Marchioness of Milford-Haven stepped from a giant air liner from Paris at Croydon airport today and told International News Service she would "stick by" Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt "to the bitter end."

She has not yet definitely determined whether she will go to New York to give evidence in the Gloria Vanderbilt custody hearing. She added:

"My lawyers will decide that, but I think it is most likely that I shall go soon.

"I want to do everything I can for Gloria (Mrs. Vanderbilt) and I'm going to stand by her through it all."

The marchioness had to be assisted from the plane by a woman companion. She appeared haggard and drawn, obviously suffering under great mental stress.

Her lips tightened, however, as she added:

"I will say this—the allegations about Mrs. Vanderbilt, as I have read them in the newspapers, are nothing but a pack of terrible and malicious lies!"

The marchioness, whose husband is a great-grandson of Queen Victoria and a cousin of King George, spoke with deep feeling concerning the trial. She said she would confer with the marquess and her lawyers at once on whether she would go to Mrs. Vanderbilt's aid.

"Connie" Bennett Rushes to Aid Mrs. Vanderbilt

By International News Service

New York, Oct. 4—Hollywood trimmings were added to the knock-down-drag-out fight being waged over the custody of 10-year-old Gloria Vanderbilt today, when glamorous Constance Bennett offered to leave the bedside of her ailing marquis husband to fly over plains and mountains to the defense of her friend, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt.

With additional charges promised for tomorrow when the habeas corpus proceeding brought by Mrs. Vanderbilt for the custody of her daughter will be resumed before Supreme Court Justice Carew, the famous screen star jumped into the breach and swung right and left against "those responsible for the vile and low stories being told in court."

ROYALTY ON WAY

Meanwhile, her brother, her titled twin sister and a royal friend of Mrs. Vanderbilt were reported prepared to hasten here to deny interclan charges that she is unfit to mother her 10-year-old daughter.

The Marchioness of Milford-Haven, wife of the cousin of England's King, it is rumored will sail Saturday on the Empress of Britain with Lady Furness, twin of the 29-year-old mother and Harry Hays Morgan her brother.

At her suite in the Waldorf-Astoria following her arrival from abroad on the liner Paris with her husband, the Marquis Berni de la Falaise de la Coudray, beautiful Miss Bennett fumed and raged over the developments in the blue-blood feud. She said:

"I am at a loss for words with which to condemn the utterly foul attacks on my friend.

WILL GO TO COURT

"I never heard anything so fantastic, so rotten and low as the stories that have been told about Mrs. Vanderbilt by her former servants. It is absolutely impossible for these stories to be anything but lies.

"If the need arises, I will fly back from the coast to help my friend.

"Of course, you realize that my husband is very ill and I am taking him to Lake Arrowhead in California on the advice of physicians.

"However, nothing will stand in my way if I am needed to tell the true story about Mrs. Vanderbilt."

Lady Furness Attacks Mother's Stand in Suit

By Associated Press

Paris, Oct. 4—The former Lady Furness, twin sister of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, rapped her mother's stand in the New York suit over the custody of Gloria Vanderbilt, 10, as she was preparing today to return to the United States.

She said that the action of her mother, Mrs. Laura Kilpatrick Morgan, who presented an affidavit in court directed against Mrs. Vanderbilt, was incomprehensible to her. She added:

"I cannot understand mother's attitude at all, she was present (at Biarritz) all the time when Prince Hohenlohe was there. If there was anything wrong, why didn't she get out?"

Havana, Santiago Shaken by Bombs

Havana, Oct. 4 (AP)—A double-barrelled outburst of terroristic bombing in Cuba's two largest cities, Havana and Santiago, ended at dawn today without a casualty.

Squadrons of cavalry clattered through Santiago last night and took control of the streets after electric light and power lines had been slashed. Twenty bombs exploded. Terrorsits protested the inauguration of Dr. Ernesto Ganivet as mayor because they claim he is an attorney for banking interests.

MARCHIONESS OF MILFORD-HAVEN MRS. GLORIA VANDERBILT

MRS. GLORIA VANDERBILT

Incensed at charges that Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt was guilty of misconduct and not fit to be the mother of her 10-year-old daughter, Gloria, friends are rallying to her side in battle for child's custody. Among them are the Marchioness of Milford-Haven, wife of a cousin of George V, who may cross ocean to testify. She is pictured with Mrs. Vanderbilt on the sands at Cannes, smart French resort, in happier days. She calls testimony about her and Mrs. Vanderbilt a "monstrous, criminal lie" and is ready to fight to keep her name clear. More formal is Mrs. Vanderbilt's attire for a party under electric instead of sun light. (Pictures by International News Photograph Service.)

LABOR SCORES FIRST 30-HOUR WEEK VICTORY

International News Service

San Francisco, Oct. 4—Organized labor, rejoicing and jubilant, today announced the "first major victory" in its fight for a 30-hour week and a 100 per cent closed shop.

The announcement, which cheered the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, came from Frank Feeney, Philadelphia, international president of the Elevator Constructors Union.

He said his organization, representing 10,000 employes in the United States and Canada, had negotiated a five-year agreement with employers whereby a six-hour day and a five-day week were effective, with closed shop conditions prevailing.

Also, he said, his union is pledged to strike in support of any five building trades crafts in the United States or Canada that go out for a 30-hour week.

REDS PLAN TROUBLE

As the 1000 A. F. of L. delegates and friends gathered for their fourth session there was apprehension over a threat from alleged Communistic elements, both within and without the federation, to "storm" the convention in retaliation for the arrest of three men yesterday.

Two of the prisoners were taken when a group, spreading Communistic theories, came in conflict with the delegates at the entrance to the auditorium. A hurry call for police put the radicals to flight.

JOHNSON IS ATTACKED

Among the resolutions before the body are several which William Green, A. F. of L. president, labeled as "communistic" and which he said "will be cared for in short order, for the delegates know what to do with them."

Among them is a resolution demanding recognition of the "rights" of Communists to affiliate with "any party they desire"; another for the general strike in labor disputes and a third advocating widespread sympathy strikes.

The delegates still were discussing the speeches of James J. Davis, former Secretary of Labor, and Joseph A. Padway, Wisconsin labor attorney.

'RED' TEACHER BAN IS URGED

By International News Service

New York, Oct. 4—Dr. George J. Ryan, president of the board of education, today called upon the board of examiners to bar all would-be teachers of doubtful loyalty. In a letter to George J. Smith, president of the board of examiners, Dr. Ryan said:

"Let us close the door now against anyone who may seek a teaching position for the purpose of teaching American children un-American and subversive doctrines."

ENDS HIS LIFE IN PERFECT CRIME

By International News Service

Hollywood, Oct. 4—Hollywood has experienced its "perfect crime."

Stellmach himself was the plotter and killer authorities concluded as they traced the strange pattern of circumstances surrounding the death of Stellmach, whose body, with a bullet wound, washed up on the shore at Malibu Beach.

Stellmach's motive, officers said, was to insure payment of a life insurance policy which contained an anti-suicide clause. Paul Stellmach of New York, a brother, was the beneficiary.

Hence, the authorities reasoned, Stellmach shot himself in the abdomen in his apartment, stopped the flow of blood with a towel, drove to the beach and plunged into the sea.

Judas Likened to Politicians

In his Bible lecture, "Questions God Can't Answer," at the Ford Bible lecture auditorium, Warren avenue and West Canton street, John Ford condemned politicians who change their politics because of the prospects of a better job and more money. He said they are doing the same thing Judas did.

Mulhern Demands Gas Rate Hearing

Former State Senator Joseph J. Mulhern of Boston today demanded that the Public Utilities Commission hold a public hearing on the action of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company in increasing its rate schedules to absorb the service and meter charge outlawed by the legislature.

The Mulhern petition, containing the names of 29 customers of the company, formally asks the state commission to reject the new schedule filed by the gas company on September 12. It was taken under advisement.

INJURED GIRL IDENTIFIED

Despite her refusal to give her right name, a girl who was found lying in Bay State road, Back Bay, early today screaming and badly injured, was identified by police as Charlotte Molney, 26, of Blanche street, Cambridge.

According to Lieutenant Andrew J. Hurley of Back Bay police station, identification of the girl, now at Massachusetts General Hospital, was made by Cambridge police after she said she had been in company of a "Harvard boy."

Two nurses of the Bay State Hospital, opposite which the girl was found, attracted by screams, called police.

Killed in Mill Riot

Bridgeport, Pa., Oct. 4 (INS)—Tension gripped this mill town today after serious rioting in which Ellwood Quirk, 23, was killed. Textile strikers and strike sympathizers nursed injuries.

SHOE MEN PAID MILLIONS

Washington, Oct. 4—The government here reminded boot and shoe manufacturers, who have been protesting against federal shoe-making activities, that they have had a lot of government business.

Officials disclosed that 3,360,535 pairs of shoes and other footwear had been purchased or ordered for the boys of the CCC during the past year. War Department figures were cited to show the orders had amounted to $8,736,000.

Announcement of the CCC purchases closely followed kicks from leaders of the shoe manufacturing industry against plans to make shoes for the unemployed in relief work shops financed largely by federal funds.

HAUPTMANN'S NEW JERSEY, MASSACHUSETTS MAPS FOUND

—a $10 gold certificate—turned up today at the Fordham branch of the Corn Exchange Bank. It was the ninth ransom bill passed since the arrest of Hauptmann.

On the theory that a confederate of Hauptmann's may be quietly ridding himself of the "hot" money, the police re-doubled their efforts to find out who is passing the notes.

Strangely enough, it was in the Fordham branch of this bank that the $50,000 ransom money was kept before being paid over by Dr. John F. ("Jafsie") Condon in St. Raymond's cemetery.

Foley surprised the newspaper reporters at today's conference when he told about the findnig of the maps.

VICINITY DESCRIBED

The authorities, in questioning the Lindbergh case suspect last week, laid the New Jersey map before him and asked him how one would go from one town to another in the vicinity of Hopewell. The map showed roads leading to within three miles of Hopewell.

Hauptmann readily discussed the roads in that vicinity, Foley asserted, adding:

"He reproduced sections of this territory from memory with remarkable accuracy down to the smallest intersecting road."

Hauptmann was induced to describe various roads up to a point within three miles of the Lindbergh home, Foley announced.

The district attorney said the authorities first asked the suspect concerning roads quite some distance away. Hauptmann had admitted he had been in New Jersey. Gradually the police, in interrogating the prisoner, worked closer to the Lindbergh home in questioning him about the roads.

SUSPECT BECOMES MUM

Hauptmann told which roads were paved, which were dirt. At the time he wasn't quite his cautious self.

They were asking him about a hill three miles from the Lindbergh home when he suddenly stopped and refused to answer any further questions about roads.

In Hauptmann's effects also were found maps of Massachusetts and adjacent territory.

In this connection, the authorities recalled that after Lindbergh's intermediary, Dr. Condon, handed over the $50,000 ransom, instructions were given to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh that his baby would be available to him at a spot not far from the Massachusetts shores.

The maps found in Hauptmann's trunk showed not only Massachusetts, but other points mentioned at the time Lindbergh was searching by airplane for the child—such places as Gay Head, Buzzards Bay and Marthas Vineyard.

TRIPS DENIED

Hauptmann had denied that he ever was up in that region.

But District-Attorney Foley said today that investigators have traced Hauptmann's movements as far as Bridgeport, Ct., leading toward that region. Hauptmann went on fishing trips in the Bridgeport area.

Foley declined, however, to state on what dates Hauptmann had been on those fishing trips.

On request of the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes, in Dublin, Foley has mailed a list of numbers of Lindbergh ransom money to determine whether any of it was used to buy sweepstakes tickets.

Discussing the English-German dictionaries found in Hauptmann's effects, Foley expressed the opinion Hauptmann had used them in penning the various ransom notes.

In the ransom notes, he pointed out, the simpler words were misspelled, whereas the more difficult words were invariably spelled correctly.

Foley said he thought Hauptmann deliberately misspelled the smaller words and copied the larger words out of the dictionaries.

The presence of the dictoinaries, in his opinion, is another point which indicates that Hauptmann was the writer of the ransom notes.

Regarding reports that the Hunterdon County (N. J.) grand jury will be asked next week to indict Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby, Foley said that New Jersey would have to move before next Thursday for extradition.

Hauptmann's trial on the charge of extortion is scheduled to start in the Bronx next Thursday.

Foley thought the finding of the maps and Hauptmann's knowledge of the vicinity of the Lindbergh home would be of considerable value to the New Jersey authorities.

Asked if the road map covering Hopewell had been marked, Foley replied that "the map had been used." And, furthermore, Foley asserted, Hauptmann "even knew the side roads."

Hauptmann Is Worried

Lines of care and anxiety are seen to be carving deeper lines in the face of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, above, in his latest photo, as the date of his trial now looms definitely before him on October 11. He will face the charge of extortion in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping.(Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

Lutherans Vote Added Meeting

Meriden, Conn., Oct. 4—The New England conference, United Lutheran Synod of New York, United Lutheran Churches of America, voted to convene semi-annually instead of once a year, at the annual convention here.

INSULL HEARS SELF CALLED 'BIG CHEAT'

By Associated Press

Chicago, Oct. 4—Samuel Insull's stock sales in his ill-fated Corporation Securities Company were termed a "simple conspiracy to swindle, cheat and defraud the public" by the government as it outlined the mail fraud case against the utilities executive today.

United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green, in a calm statement detailing what government investigators uncovered in Insull's financing, charged that the company was set up simply as a "dumping ground" for large quantities of stock acquired in market deals to boost the price of Insull stock.

"PLENTY OF MONEY"

Insull and the others put into the new company the common stock of another Insull company, Insull Utility Investments, and "a few dollars in cash."

It owed $3,500,000 for the stock Then on this property, Green charged:

"The defendants falsely represented to the public that the new corporation would commence business with assets of more than $80,000,000."

Green declared that four of the 16 defendants on trial with Insull floated a huge issue of "allotment certificates under the pretense that they were letting their friends and customers in on an opportunity to make plenty of money."

'JEWELS OF INSULL EMPIRE'

It was through Halsey, Stuart & Co., nationally known La Salle street investment banking house, that the 17 defendants sold their 700,000 allotment certificates, which were "packages" of one share of common stock and one share of preferred stock, offered at $75 a pair, Green continued.

Employes of the investment house were told to contact customers, Green declared, and recommend an investment in this paper as "The jewels of the Insull empire," with the tip that only a fortunate few would be allowed to "get in on the ground floor."

Hauptmann's Criminal Record in Reich Bared

By Associated Press

New York, Oct. 4—District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx today made public Bruno Richard Hauptmann's criminal record in Germany, his native land, as cabled to the New York Police Department by Detective Arthur Johnson, of the department.

Johnson, who was in Vienna at the time of Hauptmann's arrest, was ordered to Germany to investigate angles of the case there.

The record showed that Hauptmann had been sentenced on several charges in his fatherland and had escaped from jail once. The record, as cabled by Johnson, read:

"Criminal history of Bruno Hauptmann:

"March 22, 1919, Kamenz, burglary, theft, receiving stolen goods, guilty on five charges two years, six months, one week."

"June 3, 1919, March 26, 1919 Kamenz, holdup, gun, two years, six months.

"March 30, 1923, three years. (No charge given.)

"June 12, 1923, three burglary charges at Kamenz, where escaped June 20, 1923."

Detective Johnson's cablegram was dated Dresden, Germany, and said he was mailing details.

HERMIT'S DEATH LAID TO TRIO

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 4—With the finding of a piece of a gun stock which fitted into a gun found on the Williamstown-Northfield road, and the arrest of three men, State Detective Almon Franzoni declared that he has solved the mysterious murder September 18, of Allen McKensie, Williamstown, recluse who was found with his skull fractured.

The piece of gun stock was found on the floor beside the man's body. Dennis Wilder of Northbrookfield, his brother Bernard, were arrested.

Small Boys Held in Tobacco Theft

Two South Boston boys, eight and nine years of age, will appear in South Boston juvenile court Saturday after being arrested as they emerged from a rear window of a restaurant on Northern avenue, South Boston. Two plugs of chewing tobacco, two packages of pipe tobacco and $1.43 was the loot.

BRITAIN TO ARM, PARLEY TOLD

By International News Service

Bristol, Eng., Oct. 4—Virtually abandoning hope for world disarmament under present conditions, Great Britain has decided to build up her national defenses and has formulated detailed plans toward that end.

This was the message delivered by Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain to the annual Conservative party conference here.

"Nobody can say," Chamberlain declared, "that Britain has not given the lead in disarmament.

"But until there can be removed the feeling of fear and anxiety among other great armed nations, there is not much hope of getting any serious amount of disarmament.

"Therefore the government has decided it would be incompat'ble with its duty to Britain to leave our defenses in the condition they are today.

City Gets More Taxes

City Collector John F. Doherty reported an increase of $2,500,000 in the city's tax collections over 1933.

YOUTH IN CO-ED DEATH JAILED

Wayne, Neb., Oct. 4—Ronald Young, 20, who survived a suicide pact entered with 19-year-old Nancyann Alford last May 4, was sentenced here to serve one to 20 years in the state penitentiary in connection with the Wayne Teachers' College co-ed's death.

Reversing his plea when arraigned last month, Young pleaded guilty here, just before his trial was to start on a charge of cutting with intent to wound. A charge of second degree murder was dismissed.

Nancyann's body was found in the dental office here of Dr. L. B. Young, the youth's father. Ronald, unconscious, was nearby. An odor of natural gas, two empty anaesthetic botties, a bloodstained pocket knife and a scalpel were evidence of the tragedy.

ALFRED LEWIS FACES COURT

Three persons, including Alfred Baker Lewis of Boston, Socialist candidate for governor, faced East Brookfield court today charged with disturbing the peace.

Lewis, with Mrs. Mary D. Hapgood of North Brookfield and William Adams of Worcester, were arrested at Main and Mechanics street, Spencer, for violating provisions for a speaking permit.

KAMINSKI GANG DUMPS VICTIM AT HOSPITAL

New alarms for the apprehension of Alexander Kaminski, escaped killer, sounded over the police radio and teletype systems of four states today, as a Hartford, Ct., man was robbed of his auto and shot nearly to death near South Hadley Falls, in the western part of the state.

The victim, dumped at the door of a Holyoke hospital, told authorities that he was sure that Kaminski was one of the masked assailants. The robber gang boasted they wanted his car for a bank holdup, he said:

As warning was sent through Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire and New York, police declared they were certain that this bandit gang was the same that recently robber a Wallingford, Ct., bank of $20,000.

BULLET NEAR HEART

The victim of the latest outrage is Gordon Pepion, 28, of Kenyon street, Hartford. He had a bullet hole through his breast, only an inch or two from his heart.

Pepion told police that he was motoring home after visiting a girl in South Hadley Falls when a man who had apparently hidden himself in the rear of the car suddenly thrust a gun into his back and ordered him to stop.

As Pepion applied the brakes another machine drew alongside and two masked men got out.

BLOND BANDIT

One of them was tall, the same build as Kaminski, blond and with a heavy growth of light colored beard, the wounded man asserted.

The bandits forced him to move over from the driver's seat while one of them took the wheel, Pepion said. The man with the gun remained in back.

The bandits were boasting that they were going to stick up a bank this morning when the pistol in the rear suddenly went off, according to the victim.

The bullet knocked Pepion from his seat. When he recovered his senses, the man said the cars were on the outskirts of Holyoke and the robbers were talking about getting a doctor for him. The victim gathered the impression that the shooting was accidental, he said.

Honeymooner

Mrs. Arthur M. Haid, above, the former Miss Helen Anderson Gately of Boston, was snapped aboard the Mexico-bound steamer, SS. Lady Hawkins.

JAIL FUGITIVE RETURNS

Concord, N. H., Oct. 4—John J. McCarthy, who escaped from state prison two years ago, and escaped from a sheriff when captured two months later, was returned here from Ohio, where he was arrested on an auto theft charge, and identified by federal officials.

McCarthy, serving five to seven years for assault and battery, escaped while the prison wall was being extended. Located in New York city, two months later, he escaped from Sheriff George A. Wooster, when the New York train arrived in Baston.

Two Patrolmen Trailed by Gangsters

In an extended cross-examination of four members of the youthful "Dripping Dagger" gang, rounded up in an investigation on a hit-and-run accident Friday, police learned that two South Boston patrolmen have been "on the spot" for the past month.

For weeks it is alleged they trailed Patrolmen Edward Shea and John Heffernan of the South Boston station, with the hopes of putting them out of the way. They are alleged to have admitted always being armed with shot guns and revolvers while trailing the patrolmen but declared they never had an opportunity to kill them.

As the result of the investigation, five men were arrested. They were Joseph Gedgis, 18, of Raven street, Dorchester; Andrew Egan, 22, of Gates street, South Boston; Lawrence Johnson, 17, of Dorchester avenue, South Boston; Dominick Musico, 17, of Southampton street, South Boston; and Anthony Novak, 17, of Boston street. All will be arraigned in South Boston Court today.

AUTO CRASHES INTO WAGON

After his auto struck a milk wagon on Dorchester avenue, South Boston, early today, Joseph J. McKeon of Heston terrace, Dorchester, was placed under arrest on charges of drunkenness.

According to police, McKeon was driving along Dorchester avenue when he struck a milk wagon operated by Kinsley Stevens of Summer street, Dorchester. The milkman escaped injury.

The "photon theory" would reduce that to a few billion volts.

Imagine twenty thousand million volts, driving cosmic rays through this earth and other planets and suns that stand in their way, also, incidentally, through your skull and your brain.

Brigadier General William Mitchell, in charge of all our flying forces in the big war, talked plainly about air defence for the United States before President Roosevelt's aviation "planners."

He said this country ought to have fifty dirigibles, because fifty, well handled, could destroy Japan within two days.

Nobody, let us hope, wants to destroy Japan in two days or two centuries, but this country should possess an air force that would justify the statement that the United States could quickly destroy any nation, foolish enough to attack us.

General Mitchell advocates a plan to take the population out of New York city in case of air attack by Japan "from a base in Alaska."

According to General Mitchell, in case of war, this government would have to buy airplane engines in Europe, because it does not encourage building big enough engines here. England has planes of 1600 horsepower, Italy has still more powerful engines. We cannot compare with them. General Mitchell thinks that all air forces in the United States should be under one single commander, and everybody else thinks so, except gentlemen of the army and navy that want to amuse themselves playing with separate, inadequate air units.

"Gold, gold, yellow and cold," or our paper substitute for it, appears not to believe in Upton Sinclair's "EPIC" or "End Poverty in California" plan.

San Francisco shows that state and local bonds have shrunk in value fifty millions of dollars, since Mr. Sinclair produced his "EPIC" idea. Perhaps financiers feel that they and their securities will have to PAY for "EPIC."

You can only "end poverty" with money in these practical days, and when, if elected, Mr. Sinclair comes to borrowing for his well-meant experiments hundreds of millions that the experiments will require, the capitalistic "fafner," sleeping on his rhinegold, may growl out a drowsy "no."

The President is understood to be much interested in what newspaper correspondents call "an industrial truce," meaning cessation of fighting between employers and employed, and if possible some decrease in strikes.

The President's interest in the matter is easily understood. If you were trying to help swimmers in desperate straits, leaving a sinking ship and struggling to reach shore, you would be sorry to see them stop swimming every few minutes to scratch each other's faces and pull each other's hair.

That is what capital and labor have been doing. No wonder the President is disappointed in both. His rebuke is very gentle.

Neville Chamberlain, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, who can keep a single glass in his eye without any string attached, and appears to steer the British money ship skillfully, says Britain's method of gradually coming back to prosperity, while "lacking in drama, produces results." He seems to think that is better than plenty of drama, not producing results.

Mr. Chamberlain spoke at the Lord Mayor's dinner to toast the "Chancellor of the Exchequer and prosperity to the public purse."

Before he rose to speak the hope was expressed that the government raise money in such a fashion as to call for "the least possible interference with trade, national and international."

Mr. Chamberlain promised that that should be done. American trade, "national and international," will read that with interest.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

MORSE MAID GIVES PRISON CLUE IN DEATH THREATS

Attempts to extort $100,000 from John Torrey Morse of Needham, world famous biographer, may be connected with underground efforts to win freedom for a slayer confined at Norfolk Prison Colony.

This was an important new clue in the mystery under investigation today as a result of a story told by Mrs. Flora Farow, 31, a maid at the Morse estate.

According to Mrs. Farrow, a man whom police believe to be a cousin of the imprisoned slayer, demanded money from Morse during a personal interview.

Morse, who is 94, was graduated from Harvard in 1860. There is no Harvard man living who was graduated so long ago.

WHAT MORSE SAID

Morse's interview with a prisoner's cousin took place a few days before the wealthy author received the first of two letters threatening harm to his adopted daughter and former secretary, Miss Charlotte $100,000 in cash at one of two Silber Morse, 51, unless he secreted specified places.

Two telephone calls preceded the visit of this man to the Morse estate. Mrs. Farrow said:

"I admitted him to the house and showed him into the library where Mr. Morse saw him. They talked about 15 minutes. Later I heard Mr. Morse saying, 'I don't know what they take me for. I don't know what they think I am.'"

The man who made the demand for money, arguing that it was for use in getting his cousin out of prison, was in a position to know conditions in the household of the aged man, and was apparently aware he was a generous contributor to many charitable enterprises.

SEE THREE INN PLOT

The investigators know the identity of the man in prison, the man who called on Morse and a third man whom, they believe, if the theory is correct, may have been involved in the plot.

Mrs. Farrow has been employed at the Morse home for more than two years, and is a sister of Edwin A. Harris, who was the Morse chauffeur. She and her brother were among those questioned in connection with the investigation, she said.

This new theory, investigators admitted, is in consonance with their definite belief that the extortionist is a person familiar with conditions at the Morse estate, the most palatial on the Needham "gold coast."

TO GRILL CONVICT

The inquiry today included plans to question the man imprisoned at Norfolk as well as efforts to locate the two others it is believed may have joined him in the plot.

Other moves of the authorities indicated their belief in this theory, and a heavy guard thrown about the fenced-in grounds that slope for more than a mile to the bank of the Charles also indicated a belief that the author of the demands might attempt to make good his threat to harm Morse's adopted daughter.

DAUGHTER IN BOSTON

Miss Morse is reported to have left the estate and moved to Boston temporarily because of the threats.

Every effort was made to surround the inquiry with secrecy. However, abroad in the town was an unverified report that private detectives retained by the venerable millionaire had missed capturing the extortionist by inches.

According to this story, a detective was in hiding one night recently near a tree in Brookside road, Needham, at the foot of which the threatener had directed in his second letter that the $100,000 in cash be placed.

While the detective watched, a man approached in the darkness, turned a spotlight on the foot of the tree and fled as the detective approached him.

FLEES FROM TRAP

Mrs. Farrow, the Morse maid, is at present on a short leave of absence preparing to undergo a tonsil operation.

Her brother, Harris, the chauffeur, has not been employed by Morse recently, although he was working for him at the time the threats were received. Investigators were careful to point out that he is not under suspicion.

Before they reached that decision, however, samples of his handwriting and that of his sister were taken and they were questioned at length, according to Mrs. Farrow, who told of the visit of the man demanding cash.

The first letter, mailed in Roslindale on August 28, followed this visit, said officials. It was on ordinary four-sheet folded letter paper, written in pencil, in a good hand, but with several words misspelled, probably with deliberation.

The letter was addressed to Morse personally and began without any salutation. In substance it said:

"We want $100,000 from you and we know that you can afford it. You must get it for us and you will follow these directions.

"Bring the money in a package to the place we have marked on this map. It must be in $5 and $10 notes.

"Tie a white handkerchief near the package and don't tell police. If you do, you and your daughter will be taken care of."

The bottom of the last page of the letter had a crudely-drawn map showing the exact location of the hollow stump, police said.

The second threatening missive arrived on September 10. It had been mailed in Framingham two days previously, was written on the same paper as the first and in the same fashion. This note, police said, was in substance:

"This is our second and last warning to you. In the first we told you not to tell police, but you didn't do as we said. We saw police watching the place where we told you to leave the money. This is your last chance. You take the money to this other place we are showing you on a map. Don't tell police this time because if you do we will get you and your daughter."

Postoffice inspectors plan to go over again the ground covered by police and private detectives, questioning all members of the Morse household, including the recipient of the threats, his adopted daughter, her brother, all servants and all tradesmen who have had access to the grounds of the estate.

Rescuers Miss Sinking Ship

New York, Oct. 4—The British freighter Millpool, crippled by a storm 700 miles off the coast of Labrador, was still missing today, with a crew of 26.

The Ascania and Beaverhill that raced to her rescue gave up the search after the empty, gray waters of the Atlantic revealed no trace of her, but a third ship, the Beaverford, was still circling the angry sea. The last distress message from the Millpool was described in a wireless from another ship as "unreadable."

A second British freighter, the Ainderby, was also battered by the storm. Her bridge was carried away and she was unable to heave to, but she was afloat with two vessels standing by.

VFW Asked to Ban Nazis and League

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 4 (INS)—Resolutions opposing United States' entrance into the World Court and denouncing the Nazi movement in America were laid before the Veterans of Foreign Wars in national encampment here today.

The attack on Nazism embraced a request that the Department of Justice vigorously prosecute leaders of an organization known as "The Friends of Germany" and similar groups.

MAYER IS WARY ON SINCLAIR

(By Universal Service)

New York, Oct. 4—Louis B. Mayer, president of the Motion Picture Producers Association and vice-president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, returned from Europe with Mrs. Mayer on the French liner Paris.

Formerly the Republican state chairman for California, Mayer was asked his reaction to the nomination of Upton Sinclair for the governorship by the Democrats and he replied:

"I have been away for three months, and I don't know what the situation is. But I am leaving for California at once to find out. When I get back to California, whatever seems necessary to be done for the good of the state and of the motion picture industry will be done."

Bicycle Bandit Holds Up Banks

Montral, Oct. 4—A bank bandit who disdained modern motorized transportation robbed the Banque Canadienne Nationale of $1000 here and calmly rode away on a bicycle, wearing smoked glasses.

Half an hour later the West End police station was informed a branch of the Bank of Montreal had been robbed of $2000.

Burglars Get $500 In Jamaica Plain

Returning home early today Mr. and Mrs. James J. Sullivan, of Center street, Jamaica Plain, discovered their house had been broken into and jewelry valued at $500 taken. Thieves gained entrance by forcing a rear door.

Drug Store Robbed of $8

The "drug store" bandit who has been active in Somerville, robbed Edward W. Spear, proprietor of a drug store at Walnut street and Broadway, Somerville, of $8.

T. J. BROWN

It was announced yesterday that T. J. Brown was appointed sales promotion director of Jordan Marsh Company, to succeed H. F. Twomey, who recently resigned.

Mr. Brown came to Jordan's in 1930 as display manager. In 1932 he was made assistant sales manager.

1 Dead, 1 Dying in Postal Feud

Butler Radio Muzzle Upheld by Veterans

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 4—Doughboy language is all right for old soldiers, but veterans today agreed that it may be a little strong for the ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience.

In a resolution upholding the action of radio station WAVE in cutting Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, turbulent ex-commander of the marine corps, from the air, the national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said:

"This convention thought General Butler's language was in no wise objectionable to the veterans, but it may not have been so to a mixed radio audience. We believe the radio stations acted within their rights and to the interests of the public."

Butler, substituting for Congressman Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota, who failed to arrive in time, did not know he was "off the air" until after the speech.

Nathan Lord, station manager, said Butler was taken off the circuit, which had a hookup with the National Broadcasting Company, because the "General's language was contrary to regulations of the Federal communications commission."

Butler said:

"They allow anybody in the world to abuse the soldiers, but if anybody takes the soldiers' part they cut him off. I've never gotten through a speech on the air yet.

"I was talking to veterans, anyway, and they don't wear ruffles. If the NBC has cut me off the air that is something for them to explain. I have nothing further to say about it."

During his address General Butler said:

"I can't talk your language or mine with these deodorizers (indicating microphones) around, so prepare yourselves for tripe and bedtime stories."

The general described some food conditions in his home state of Pennsylvania as contrasted to the good food the veterans were enjoying while here for the convention.

His description of the food given through relief sources was not heard on the air, it being the remark which Lord of the station WAVE took exception to, together with references as to "Marines making whoopee in the redlight district." Another remark which did not reach the ether was this:

"When you soldiers and farmers join hands and show your strength they'll quit throwing heifer dust in your eyes down in Washington."

DREISER 'FACES' AROUSE COURT

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 4—Judge William A. Valentine objected to what he termed the "facial expressions" of Theodore Dreiser, author of "An American Tragedy," paralleled by the Robt Edwards trial.

The court addressed Dreiser, sitting at a press table:

"I cannot permit facial expressions in the presence of this jury."

Defense Attorney Frank McGuigan had just wrung a reply from a witness. Dreiser shifted in his seat, raised his brows, and the court, noting it, addressed the author.

'WHISKIES' FILM SHOWN AT CURB

The latest feature film to reach Boston, "Pedigreed Whiskies", is to be run off, not in the moving picture theaters, but in the windows of the city's various liquor stores. Altogether, it is scheduled for a two-weeks' run, but it will play only one-day stands in each store window, its sponsors announced today.

The film, distributed by the Schenley Products Corporation shows all the processes in the manufacture of whiskey, from the wheat fields to the consumer.

In Washington, the picture was viewed by the Federal Alcholic Control Administration, and praised as an educational feature. It comes here directly from New York's Wine and Liquor Industries' show.

Austrian Leader Held as Nazi Aide

Vienna, Oct. 4 (AP)—Dr. Franz Sonnleithner, chief of the Secret Code Bureau of the Austrian government, has been arrested on charges of informing German Nazis in advance of all security measures planned by the Austrian government.

Recent military and police actions against Nazis in Austria have failed, in most instances, officials said, because the suspects had been warned in advance to flee the country.

United Workmen Choose Fearing

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 4—Edgar Bennett of Newton, Kas., was elected president of the Ancient Order of United Workmen at the final session of the organization's two-day annual international convention here. Other officers included Charles C. Fearing of Boston, vice president.

WHAT can a woman do to be charming?

It isn't a matter of a Grecian profile or gowns with a Paris label. It isn't a matter of age or money. It is often a matter of health.

Health means a clear skin . . . sparkling eyes . . . bubbling vitality . . . steady nerves and a dependable disposition. Radiant health is the foundation of beauty and charm. The woman who is healthy and friendly and interested in the world about her cannot fail to be attractive to others.

If you are not as well as you want to be, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Remember that 98 out of 100 women say, "It helps me!"

"I was a disagreeable old spit-cat!"
—says Mrs. Davidson

"I was so nervous I wanted to scream. Your Tablets helped me wonderfully. My husband remarked last night of the difference he sees in me. I am not that grouchy, disagreeable old spit-cat I was three weeks ago. I am a cheerful, joking young girl again."—MRS. CLARENCE R. DAVIDSON, 1311 Milburn Blvd., Mishawaka, Indiana

"All the fun was gone out of life—"

"All the fun was gone out of life. I was very nervous and had terrible backaches. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a great medicine for a woman at any time of life but especially at the Change and before motherhood. My daughter Lucille feels 100% better since she took it. It helped my daughter-in-law, too."—MRS. S. MATUSHEK, 10907 Edbrooke Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

If periodic pain is dragging you down, ask your druggist for Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. Mrs. Marion Sidor, 5436 Grace Street, Chicago, Illinois, says: "I had severe pains and terrible headaches periodically. My husband saw your Tablets advertised and bought me a bottle. They helped me wonderfully — stopped all the pain."

It's old fashioned to suffer. Silly, too, when so many stores sell Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. They bring welcome relief from cramping pains, "blue" spells, periodic backache and headache and similar discomforts which undermine a woman's charm.

CURLEY MEETS LEADERS FOR RALLY DRIVE

By FRANK REILLY

Democratic leaders of Greater Boston will meet with former Mayor James M. Curley, the party standard bearer, at the City Club tonight to make final arrangements for the opening of his gubernatorial campaign in Suffolk, Middlesex and Essex counties.

The meeting is sponsored by the Woodrow Wilson Society of Massachusetts. Samuel Kalesky, head of the organization, will preside.

Tentative plans will be made for rallies in every community of the three counties from October 15 until election day, November 6.

Early today Curley completed plans for a drive for registration of voters in the Worcester-Hampden senatorial district. That campaign will be directed by William J. Noonan, former town moderator of Clinton.

Women voters will take an active part in the gubernatorial campaign and Curley will confer with 150 members of the Boston Women's Democratic Club at Hotel Touraine on Tuesday evening. At that time a women's speaker bureau will be organized.

Speaking at Clinton last night ex-Mayor Curley expressed the opinion that America is now passing through a peaceful revolution. He said:

"Everybody, with the exception of the Republican candidates for office, recognizes that we are not now approaching an election—it is a peaceful revolution—and the people are going to vote to preserve America and to support President Roosevelt.

MILLIONS NEED FOOD

"We must prepare to feed 21 million Americans this winter. One of every six men, women and children in America are on the public welfare rolls. The issue now is to do something for America and its millions of needy people. It is not now a matter of helping a political party."

WELLS DRAINED FOR SPEER GUN

By JOHN H. NOONAN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Northfield, Oct. 4—All through the night and into this morning the throb of pumping machines sounded as authorities emptied the 150,000-gallon reservoir in the rear of the Spetr cottage here.

In the bottom of this ruge well officials investigating the shotgun slaying of Dr. Elliott Speer had hopes of finding the weapon that blasted the life out of the Mt. Hermon School headmaster.

Failure greeted their efforts when a 35,000-gallon reservoir, the smaller of the two, was drained, but it was pointed out that the logical hiding place would be in the larger well.

Another search through the Speer home was also contemplated. As soon as Mrs. Charlotte Speer, widow of the murdered man, and her three children had left the place yesterday, the first thorough examination was made. Authorities hinted they wanted to find out more about why the lights in the rear of the house were useless the night that Dr. Speer was killed.

Infantry Vets Meet on Monday

The 301st Infantry Veterans' Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Hotel Minerva headquarters, 214 Huntington avenue, on Monday evening, Oct. 8, at 7:30 p. m. Nomination of officers who will serve the organization for the year 1935 will be acted upon at this meeting. This meeting, the first of the fall series, will be called to order by Commander Kelley.

Dies Hearing Series

Providence, R. I., Oct. 4—Stricken with a heart attack while listening to a broadcast of the World Series game, Joseph Fletcher, 71, died almost instantly.

New Joys Follow Grief

Peter Christopoulos, above, orphan in Father Flangan's Boys' Home in Omaha, Nebraska, failed in his trial adoption as "a rich man's son," but now he has found his brother and a home —and is happy.

Orphan Fails as 'Rich Man's Son' But Finds His Brother

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 4—The windan asylum to the overwhelming so ill it blows nobody good is yet to be found.

Peter Christopoulos, 14, an orphan, tok a buffeting from the unkind winds of fate when he was shipped back to the orphan asylum after a month of adoption by a wealthy manufacturer. Peter was "temperamentally unfit" to a life of luxury and the role of a "rich man's son," it was claimed.

Peter has changed his mind today. Because of the publicity attendant upon his Cinderella experience, Peter was located by his long-lost brother in Chicago, and now is living in a real home once more.

NEVER KNEW PARENTS

Peter never knew his parents. He went to Father Flanagan's boys' home here when a year old. Then, when he was 14 a lucky stroke of fortune came his way.

A wealthy silk manufacturer, Hean Strengs of Paterson, N. J., picked Peter out of the crowd of eager orphans and took him East to become a rich man's "son."

It didn't work. Hard as Peter tried to make good, the change from the bare necessities of life in luxury in the Strengs mansionwas too great. Bewildered and broken hearted, the youngster was sent back to the boys' home.

His fate, reversing the good luck of the old nursery tales, attracted widespread interest. Peter's photograph appeared in newspapers from coast to coast.

RESEMBLANCE MARKED

In Chicago, Michael Christopoulos, 22, a shipping clerk, was attracted by the similarity in their names. He studied Peter's picture; it bore a marked resemblance to Michael's own son who was drowned.

Michael paid a visit to Father Flanagan's home. Authorities there said:

"You never saw two fellows who looked so much alike. Michael's story convinced us that Peter must be the brother who was separated from him when their parents were killed in a train wreck when both were just children."

Now Peter is living with Michael in Chicago, and is a student at a high school there.

The members of the union and their guests will attend a supper in the vestry before the meeting. Rev. Mr. Feagan is now pastor of the First Baptist Church, Arlington.

Vessel Aground at Woods Hole

Woods Hole, Oct. 4—The schooner Francis J. Manter of Nantucket, was aground today on rocks at the harbor entrance with a crew of seven, including the captain, aboard.

The harbor master planned to go out at high tide and attempt to pull the craft free. He was attracted to the grounded vessel by blasts of its whistles.

GIRL SOUGHT IN 'SPOT SLAYING'

WATCH GIVES CLUE

Police had previously obtained a clue to the victim's identity by his watch number, which they found on police records. The watch had once been pawned, they found, at a shop in Hanover street.

Girgo lived at 47 Prince street. As a baker he may have incurred the enmity of racketeers who tried to prey on Italian bakers some time ago.

Girgo was found dying yesterday from a bullet wound through his temple and a fractured skull in a wooded section off Shawsheen avenue in Wilmington.

Because of the alertness of several Wilmington housewives, one of whom gave police information which led to the arrest of the five men for questioning, District Attorney Warren L. Bishop prediced an early solution to the crime.

SPORTS SEDAN NEARBY

Shortly after the crime was discovered, women in the neighborhood recalled seeing four men on foot and a fifth man sitting in a brown and tan sports sedan.

Mrs. Mary Cuoco of Shawsheen avenue reported:

"I saw four men walking down the avenue talking excitedly. I recognized one of them. His brother owns property near here and I have seen him in the neighborhood several times before."

Mrs. Mary Cosgrove, her 19-year-old daughter, Mary; Mrs. Mary Sippilo and Mrs. Carey Blaisdell, all of Shawsheen avenue, also saw the men. Mrs. Blaisdell and Mrs. Cuoco are reported by police to have identified four of the men held as the men they saw yesterday afternoon.

From the first, it was believed that Girgo was "taken for a ride" from some place in Boston and that Wilmington entered into the case merely because it was the end of the "ride."

HEARD HIM PRAYING

Mrs. Sippilo said she reached Girgo's side before he lost consciousness and that he was praying in Italian.

"It seemed as though he wanted to tell me something," she said, "but I couldn't understand what he was saying. Now and then I caught the words, 'Get me, Mother,' which he kept repeating."

Girgo, it was learned, has been a resident of Boston for more than two years. Until a few months ago he was employed in the North End shop and it was while police were checking on his activities that they learned of his love affairs.

The fight for the girl's affections between Girgo and an unnamed man, police say, may play an important part in crime.

After the Wilmington women had told of seeing the brown and tan sports sedan in the neighborhood, police traced it to a Wilmington garage.

Mrs. Clougherty Taken by Death

Word was received from New York today of the death of Mrs. Francis Clougherty, the former Louise Lenz of Jamaica Plain. Mrs. Clougherty had been ill for several months. She is survived by her husband and by two daughters, Helen, and Mrs. Louise Ryan.

Mrs. Clougherty was the daughter of Mrs. Marie Lenz of Jamaica Plain. She also leaves three sisters, Mrs. John Collins, Mrs. John Schmidt and Mrs. Charles Dreeninger, and three brothers, Edward, Theodore and Charles Lenz. The brothers are members of the Boston police department.

O.K. on U. S. Charm

Mady Christians, Viennese star, who says Americans are more charming than Europeans. She'd have the ideal woman made up of 90 per cent American and 10 per cent European.

VIENNESE STAR PRAISES U. S.

Hollywood, Oct. 4—After three months in Hollywood, Mady Christians, Viennese star, rates Americans more charming than than Europeans.

The ideal woman should be 90 per cent American and 10 per cent European. The perfect man would be 70 per cent American and 30 per cent European.

So analyzes the actress, who won fame as heroine of "The Waltz Dream," and who is shortly to make her Hollywood screen debut for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in "The Wicked Woman." She declared:

"The American women are more self-reliant than their European sisters. They go in more for the outdoor life and a greater proportion attend colleges and universities. The result is a straightforward sort of person with intellectual as well as physical charm.

"I would take 90 per cent of that and add 10 per cent of the femininity of the European woman, who depends more upon the masculine sex and whose ideas of home life are perhaps a little more domestic."

If she had it to do, the Viennese star would mix a few more European traits into the American man.

2-Hour Downtown Parking Period Demanded

Various demands from irate motorists and merchants' suggestions that the parking shopper be allowed a two-hour stop on downtown streets were to be thrashed out in a session of the Boston traffic commission today.

The commission was also to hear accusations by Traffic Commissioner William P. Hickey that proprietors of intown parking spaces were profiteering at the expense of motorists who are hit by the new non-fix tagging law.

Hickey went on record as opposed to the extension of the present one-hour parking limit, but he said he would favor allowing passenger cars 15 minutes and trucks 30 minutes for "live parking" near stores.

Meanwhile it was learned at police headquarters that the tagging squads of policemen would be practically doubled this morning.

This was expected to swell more than twice the total of the 700 summonses that have been sent out to illegal parkers so far.

So far only a handful of motorists have paid the $3 fine that automatically follows receipt of the summons. William D. Collins, clerk of the municipal court, said that yesterday's record showed only 20 persons out of 399 had appeared. For most of the others Saturday is the deadline.

Authorities pointed out that these persons will have to appear in court anyhow if they fail to observe the 3-5-10 dollar law, and they are jeopardizing their licenses by ignoring the summonses.

Walcott Raps Democrats

Bridgeport, Ct., Oct. 4 (INS)—The administration in Washington "must devote its entire attention to encouraging industry" if the nation is to recover, in the opinion of United States Senator Frederic C. Walcott, who is campaigning for re-election on the Republican ticket. The senator assailed "regimentation of industry."

Voters in Rush to Register Names

With only 11 more working days for new voters to register, the central office of the election commission at City Hall Annex reported a rush by men and women to place their names on the voting list. Registration is being held at City Hall daily from 9 a. m. until 10 p. m.

TRUCK DRIVERS START STRIKE

More than 350 truck drivers, representing various Boston trucking concerns, went out on strike at 27 trucking companies today. Details of police were on hand ready to quell any disturbance.

Last minute peace settlements, between members of the Truck Drivers Union Local 25, and the Truck Owners' Association of Boston, resulted in a virtually complete argreement early today.

The majority of independent concerns signed the agreement sought for under the so-called Burns award, which grants a flat eight-hour day with time and a half for overtime at the end of eight hours.

When the meeting, held at 995 Washington street, broke up early today after an all-night session, only 27 companies had not signed the Burns agreement, leaving only 350 truck drivers ready to go on strike today. They were told not to report for work, but to appear at strike headquarters.

Ask Your Doctor First, Mother

Before You Give Your Child an Unknown Remedy to Take

According to any doctor you may ask, there is one duty every mother owes her child. The duty of asking him before giving her child an unknown remedy to take.

Yet, unthinkingly, every day mothers violate this simple rule. Take the advice of unqualified persons — instead of their doctors' — on remedies for their children.

If they knew what the scientists know, they would never take the chance.

Doctors Say PHILLIPS' For Your Child

When it comes to the very frequently used "milk of magnesia," authorities stand solidly together.

Ask your own doctor about this. For over 50 years, doctors, whose life work it is to study the safety and quality of drugs that go into the home, have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia for your child."

For "Phillips'" is the result of over a half century of continuous laboratory experiment. And is rated among the finest products that science knows in its field, the kind of product your child deserves.

So Always Say "Phillips'" when you buy. And see that your child gets what you ask for — Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Do this for your own peace of mind.

Also in Tablet Form: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

DEMOCRATS TO NAME M'GLUE SATURDAY

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

"The Curley-for-Governor" campaign will be completely organized next Saturday with the holding of a special meeting of the Democratic state committee and the election of Charles H. McGlue, Curley campaign manager, as new permanent chairman of the committee.

McGlue, a former chairman and one of the outstanding organizers within the party, is popular with all factions.

Unless present plans are modified, there will be no move made at this meeting to elect a national commiteewoman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Mary Ward. Miss Ward vacated the post last January following her appointment as immigration commissioner. The feeling of the Democratic leaders is that this post can wait until after the election.

HAIGIS IS FRANK

The optimism which pervades the Democratic ranks on the outcome of the state election is borne out in part by the frank statement made by John W. Haigis of Greenfield, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, speaking before the Women's Republican Club on Beacon street. Haigis told the 200 women gathered there that he doubted if the Republican arguments for a G. O. P. victory have aroused the Republicans to the danger that confronts them.

It was revealed also by Haigis that the breaking of the G. O. P. Worcester convention slate by Alonzo B. Cook, former state auditor, has created a sore spot within the ranks. The Greenfield man consoled the women for the failure of the Republican voters to nominate Mrs. Elizabeth W. Pigeon of East Boston as candidate for auditor.

Haigis declared his own disappointment over the result. Naturally voters who cast their ballots for Cook resent this covert slap at their candidate.

GETS DEMOCRATIC AID

Years of service on Beacon Hill by Haigis in the capacity of senator and state treasurer, where he made friends with Democrats, are beginning to bear fruit. Former Representative Coleman E. Kelly of Boston, in a statement, openly is out for Haigis:

"Being a Democrat, it is my intention of voting the straight Democratic ticket until I reach the name of Haigis."

Kelly declares further that he is urging his friends to vote for the Greenfield man.

NOMINEES ON BALLOT

Through a reversal of a former opinion made by Attorney General Joseph E. Warner, Thomas J. Costello of Springfield and James M. Coughlin of North Adams, will appear on the ballot as the Democratic nominess for county commissioner in their respective counties. Because the associate commissioner nominees came from the same cities and received higher votes, Warner had first ruled that Costello and Coughlin were ineligible.

Warner now holds that the will of the people is supreme, and that that will would be defeated if the party was without representation.

Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, of course, has to be guided by the attorney general's decisions. Both Cook and Warner being Republicans, the first ruling caused a lot of embarrassment.

Child Calls League Danger to Peace

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Noted Author and Former U. S. Ambassador to Italy

Intrigue and entanglement!

Every wise traveler who returns from Europe in these days knows full well that this moment is not the moment for European WAR but is the era of European INTRIGUE.

The centuries have turned back to slick, sly and unsavory "diplomacy."

Richard Washburn Child

The heads of governments are so busy playing a game with crooked checkers that they cannot even understand Secretary Hull when he preaches that the salvation of the world is a breaking down of unnecessary TRADE BARRIERS rather than the erection of needless ECONOMIC WALLS AND POLITICAL FENCES AND A CHECKERBOARD WORLD.

Today the wars of the world are carried on by JOCKEYS riding their mounts for a crooked start in some kind of a crooked race for prizes which are really NON-EXISTENT —for victories which are defeats.

What every wise observer knows is that it is not only the Communists who BORE FROM WITHIN.

It is not the labeled foreign propagandist with a bright yellow or bright red uniform we have to fear, any more than it is the REGISTERED MEMBERS of the Communist party, few in number and exclusively "key men."

What we have to fear is the tide of soft and sappy "public opinion" which, incited by these "key men" and the undisclosed and secret "hidden men," not only slap Communism like cheap paint on to our labor unions and colleges, but slick on to us a new interest in all these latest and so-called fascinating deals and re-deals in Europe.

STILL FISH FOR U. S.

Just now the League of Nations, for example—the old TOOL OF THE EUROPEAN HIGH-STAKE GAMBLERS—has been played up by Russia's entrance and a clang-clang of activity.

THAT ACTIVITY IS NOT THE ACTIVITY OF EFFECTIVE STEPS TOWARD DEMOCRATIC PEACE.

STEPS FOR PEACE WITH JUSTICE BY THE LEAGUE IN SIXTEEN YEARS HAVE BEEN LUDICROUS STUMBLES AND STRADDLES AND SPRAWLS.

TODAY THE POOR LEAGUE HAS BEEN MADE THE HANDMAIDEN FOR MILITARY ALLIANCE AND THE TICKET AGENT FOR EUROPEAN "FIXERS."

As Mr. Hearst has pointed out, the pussyfooter American movement to get us into the League must still be watched.

Even by the back door of the World Court it must be watched.

No one can point out a present docket of the World Court which approaches even the international importance of courts in Paris, Prague or Pittsburgh.

No one can name a substantial decision of the World Court—a decision which by any chance could affect world peace that was not a POLITICAL decision with the judges divided POLITICALLY.

MILITARY MASKED

No one can point out to save their lives that we could become ensnared in the World Court and then legally resign, without the gravest POLITICAL, though NOT legal cost to US.

Even more careful must we be to see that no new JOINERS of the League, who take the place of those who have RESIGNED in disgust or anger, should be the means of WHEEDLING us into new interest in the League.

Today the League has become a MASK for military ALLIANCE and the worst kind of EUROPEAN HOKUS-POKUS, with which we are not concerned while we are far away and OUT.

Excitement Kills World Series Fan

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 4 (INS)—John Diggs, middle-aged baseball fan, is dead here today, a victim of the World Series.

Posting the score in a window, Diggs became excited as the Cardinals pushed across two runs in the second inning, and fell, dead. Physicians said his death was caused by a heart attack.

GALA FETE FOR VISITORS

By BETTY DI PESA

Luigi Beccali, Italian runner, who has preceded the touring group of Italian students due in Boston at 6 p. m. today, was to be greeted this noon by former Mayor James M. Curley at Young's Hotel.

The Olympic 1500-meters champion and former holder of the world's record for the distance, will compete tomorrow afternoon at the Harvard Stadium when the visiting students meet an American track and field team in a meet starting at 3:30 p. m.

The rest of the party of 300 students is expected to arrive late today for visits to Harvard, Tufts, Boston University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Boston College. They have been traveling throughout the United States, visiting American universities as emissaries of the Italian government.

Attorney Michael A. Fredo, representing the Massachusett Grand Lodge, Order Sons of Italy, and a large staff will welcome the students at the Hotel Statler, where they will be housed during their stay here.

Tomorrow night at the Hotel Somerset the American University World will entertain the visiting Italians at a banquet and dance. Beautiful girls from the Italian colony will be hostesses. Judge Felix Forte will be toastmaster.

Yale Students Balk at Visit of Italians

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 4—The Yale chapter of the National Student League went on record as objecting to the visit Saturday of the federation of Fascist students here and opposed any official welcome by the university officials.

In a letter addressed to President James Rowland Angell, the Yale chapter, through L. J. Kaye, student representative, urge no hospitality be extended to the Italian students who represent the destruction of intellectual integrity characteristic of Fascism.'

"Come up and win us, sometime . . . any time!"

That's what the $25 in cash awards, as offered weekly by the Boston Evening American, keeps saying to all the followers of the intriguing "About Faces" series. You, too, can share in any of these cash awards by identifying your favorite screen and stage celebrities as they appear at your favorite theaters.

Today's Hollywood stars are appearing on the screens of two of Boston's most popular theaters, the Paramount and Fenway Theaters. Here you will see "Belle of the Nineties," starring a universally popular Hollywood favorite; also "Big-Hearted Herbert," a delightful comedy featuring other important stars portrayed in today's "About Faces" series.

Beneath each drawing you will fine a block of squares. These squares equal the number of letters in the names of the Hollywood stars. Use the letters given as a clue and correctly fill in these squares. Mail your entire week's solutions to: The About Faces Editor, Boston Evening American, Boston, Mass. For the most original and most correct answers the Boston Evening American will award: First prize, $5; second prize, $3; third prize, $2, and 15 prizes of a brand-new one-dollar bill each.

Last week's winners will be announced in tomorrow's Boston Evening American. Are you the lucky one?

DANIEL BADGER RITES PLANNED

Funeral arrangements were being completed today for Daniel Bradford Badger, of 12 Prospect street, Winchester, chairman of the board of E. B. Badger and Sons, Company, one of the oldest manufacturing concerns in Massachusetts. He died at his home yesterday.

A native of Boston, he was born August 25, 1850. His parents were Erastus B. and Fannie (Campbell) Badger. He was married in 1875 to Miss Lizzie Pearson. They had three sons, Erastus B., Walter I. P. and Paul B.

Mr. Badger was also a director of the Winchester Savings Bank, president of the Home for Aged Couples in Roxbury, past president of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics Association, and a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, the Old School Boys of Boston and other organizations.

LEHMAN PUSHES ELECTION DRIVE

By International News Service.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 4—Governor Herbert H. Lehman was scheduled to confer at the executive mansion this afternoon with about 80 Democratic candidates for Senate and Assembly.

Plans were to be made for an intensive campaign in an effort to break the 20-year control of the Republicans in the Assembly and to continue the present Democratic control of the Senate.

Fannie Brice on Rudy's Program

Fannie Brice, ace comedienne of long-standing, guest stars on Rudy Vallee's weekly variety show this evening (WEEI) at 8 o'clock. Miss Brice will do one of her famous "Baby Snooks" sketches which proved so popular on previous broadcasts. Marguerite Padula, a young singing protege of Rudy, will be another performer on the guest list. Lou Holtz, comedian, seems to have attained a permanent position on the series so that we can hardly continue to call him a guest. However, he will be there.

Three hundred students at the Boston University school of education celebrated "Acquaintance Day" at Nickerson field, Weston. Sports events, a buffet supper and dance were held.

This Ear— —That Air

By N. F. T.

Let's see now, who is left of the Hollywood hoity-toities that have not been won over to the wordy wireless by moneyed manufacturers? Aside from guest artist appearances, it would seem that Greta, Marlene and Mae are about the only silver screen sirens remaining in the eyeful rather than earful array.

Strangely enough, the above trio of talkie queens possess every bit as much voice appeal as they do dramatic and —er, well I'll just put it down as personal magnetism. It doesn't take a crystal gazing seer from India to assume that the glamorous Garbo, West and Dietrich have been approached by the "mike" moguls and also by the makers of many a trademarked drug and grocery store commodity. Likewise it appears logical to allow that obtaining their consent to occupy a commercially sponsored setting, would mean a mountainous heap of cocoanuts, as our American currency is coming to be called. Just the same, anyone who wants to wager any amount from 35 cents to a half dollar that they won't all three be broadcasting for somebody shortly, will find my inborn gambling spirit sparking mile-a-minute. Cash on the line, however, or no bet.

All is set for Anson Weeks, the classy California dance band boss, who arrives in Boston today. Radio reservations (WEEI) are duly made to take his tune troupe for a skyride over New England channels between 11:30 and midnight. All of which originates behind the beautifully draped Salle Moderne walls at the Hotel Statler, opening tonight for the 1934-35 night life season. This afternoon, I accidentally came upon a fairly good grounds for a passable pun. Verily, I saw two Weeks pass in less than a minute. Anson on one side of Tremont street and Ranny on the other.

Also on the melody menu tonight in connection with local merrymaking mart openings, the Jacques Renard rhythm takes to the Down East four winds across (WNAC) Yankee Network lanes come 11:15, ushering in the gala Cocoanut Grove first night jollification down Piedmont street, just off Broadway.

You Hear Her on the Radio

PEGGY ALLENBY

Peggy Allenby . . . A delightful "Marcher of Time" . . . She being in the new radio cast . . . As well as being starred in the "Red Davis" serial . . . As the latest feats in her 27 years of life . . . Which started in New York city . . . Yes, she is Gotham born . . . On a St. Valentine's Day.

Peggy attended the Villa Maria Convent . . . In Montreal . . . And next went to the Convent of the Sacred Heart . . . In Manhattanville, N. Y. . . . And then to St. Mary's of the Notre Dame . . . At South Bend, Ind. . . . After which this little Peggy went to market in a stage way.

First she played in stock . . . At the Orpheum Theater in Memphis . . . And next headed straight for Broadway . . . The old home town . . . Which she knew so well . . . And which inspired nothing of awe . . . And she stepped into "The Little Spitfire" . . . And she spent her spare time in dashing from radio studio to radio studio . . . Trying to break in and sell her talents.

Her knowledge of Spanish . . . And of Italian . . . With those two in dialect also . . . Won her a chance . . . And she hooked on to do dialects over the air . . . Broadcasting this way for a time . . . Until interrupted by more stage engagements . . .

But she came back again to radio . . . And now she sticks . . . With the air audiences loving her voice . . . But unable to see her five feet six . . . Her 125 pounds . . . Her dark brown hair . . . Fair complexion . . . And laughing eyes . . . Not to mention her husband . . . Who is John McGovern . . . And her hobbies . . . Which are furniture . . . Rare perfumes . . . And swimming, golfing and flying.

Kellogg's RICE KRISPIES

THAT'S what a small boy said when he saw the Mother Goose story on the Rice Krispies package and was told that there were lots of other stories to follow.

And of course he will have fun every time he eats Rice Krispies. They snap, crackle and pop in milk or cream and taste so good No other rice cereal has such flavor and crunchy crispness.

Rice Krispies are fine for any meal. Nourishing and easy to digest. When eaten at the evening meal they invite restful sleep. Countless grown-ups, for this reason, often take a bowl of Rice Krispies as a bedtime snack.

Sold by grocers everywhere in the red-and-green package with a Mother Goose story as told by Kellogg's Singing Lady on the back of every one. The WAXTITE bag inside the package keeps those delicious toasted rice bubbles oven-fresh. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

THE CHILTON CLUB will be the scene of a dinner dance on Wednesday evening, October 10, given by Mr. and Mrs. J. Dellinger Barney of Marlborough street, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Moseley of Dover, in honor of their debutante daughters . . . Miss Faith Barney and Miss Ardell Moseley.

Mr. Frederick S. Moseley will serve as head usher, assisted by Messrs. Edward H. D. Pratt, Shepard Brooks, Conover Fitch, Nathaniel Bowditch, William Minot, Jr., Nelson S. Bartlett, Jr., Samuel Calloway, Frank S. Deland, Jr., and Timothy Putnam.

Miss Kathleen Calder of New York will be Miss Barney's house guest over the week-end. Miss Calder is being presented this season in New York.

Miss Barney attended Miss Winsor's School, the Chatteau Brillamonte in France and the Child-Walker School of Art. Miss Moseley was graduated from Miss Winsor's School last June.

Bernard C. Carters to Visit Here

MR. AND MRS. BERNARD C. CARTER'S lovely daughter, Mimi Carter, who was to have been presented at a large ball at the Ritz-Carlton last winter, has arrived on these shores from the Carters' villa in France . . . she is visiting the Robert Lowe Bacons at Westbury, L. I. The Carters are expected here early in November to visit Mrs. Carter's father, Mr. T. C. Thacher of Beacon street.

Miss Susan Wigglesworth is entertaining her fiance, Mr. Edward Watkins, at her home in Manchester-by-the-Sea where the Wigglesworths are staying late this season . . .

Mrs. Francis Crowninshield is to entertain for Miss Nora Bullitt this winter, as Mrs. Crowninshield is an intimate friend of Miss Bullitt's mother, who was Nora Iasigi of Boston, now Mrs. William Marshall Bullitt of New York. The Bullitts will give a large ball at Louisville, Ky., for their debutante daughter and a number of Boston girls are planning to journey down for the event.

Youth Praised by D. A. R. Head

Suffield, Ct., Oct. 4—Mrs. Russell William Magna, president general of the national society of the D. A. R., characterized modern youth as "fine, sane and splendid," as she deplored too drastic economy in public school education.

Church Conference Lauds Roosevelt

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 4—The activities of President Roosevelt in his "practical christian leadership at the turning point in history," received the endorsement of the Vermont and Quebec Universalist and Unitarian conventions as it ended its 102nd annual session here.

The convention also commended the efforts of the United States senate committee investigating the arms industries.

Notes Along the Line

By "Bravo"

Cambridge, Oct. 4

NOTES—

What happened to the well formulated plan of HOWARD and DEEMS TAYLOR and FRANK CHAPMAN, Jr. for a season of opera, ballet and opera comique at New York's Center Theater?

A repertoire had been drawn up, offering light opera, while the "Met" was open and ballet and grand opera in the off season. Probable box office recipts and salaries for artists had been computed. GLADYS SWARTHOUT (Mrs. Frank Chapman, Jr.) was to have starred and judging from her radiocast this summer, she was THE choice for such important honors. We note with pleasure the steady advancement in her singing . . . it must mean work and plenty of it. Come out of those backgrounds Frank Chapman—we'd like to hear more of YOU.

GLADYS SWARTHOUT

She was booked for Center Theater

The focal idea of the operatic scheme was to present opera for the first time to the theater going public, rather leaving the carriage trade to shift for itself. The future operatic movement in this country depends on the carrying out of some such plan. Certainly the Great Waltz does not offer a solution to the problem of Center Theater. For one thing the acoustics are risky, and of all places for traffic conditions its location is the worst! The story was told of the man that started out from Lexington avenue at 49th street at 8 and arrived about 9:20.

HOWARD TAYLOR (recently married to MYRA KINGSLEY) is fitted by experience and contacts to head the business end of the new operatic venture and DEEMS TAYLOR has cultivated successfully so many branches of musical activity that he would be a pillar of strength in artistic direction. He has constantly suffered for his American name. How we would have risen to Through the Looking Glass or Peter Ibbetson if he had been named Taylorvitch or Deemee . . . a cheese hour would be no place.

—SEVITSKY for his untiring work in behalf of the People's Symphony Orchestra. How long will it take for Boston audiences to attend in large enough numbers to pay him?

And when will we hear Dr. KOUSSEVITZKY'S new work for double bass? . . . only CASALS, KREISLER, SEGOVIA and TERTIS are equal masters of their instruments. There can be no thanks too great for these two musicians who have labored so ceaselessly to bring new developments and innovations into our musical life . . . which brings Boston before the eyes of the entire musical world.

DR. KOUSSEVITZKY—again his great bass-viol?

—MOSES SMITH for filling so ably one of the most difficult spots a critic ever had: to fit the shoes of the late H. T. P. . . . what has happened to Arthur Johnson's communicative Dial Twists, one of the most intelligent discussions of radio ever . . . an art, if it can be called that, which badly needs constructive criticism.

ALONG THE LINE

ALBERT MORRIS BAGBY'S ears will burn when he reads what ELSA MAXWELL will have to say about his Musical Mornings in her new book to be published, if and when, this fall. What has the famed social dictatress done for the welfare of nations to equal the distinctive presentation that Mr. Bagby has given the world's most famous artists? Does she labor under the delusion that SHE originated scavenger hunts? And what became of her musical play, book by MARY PICKFORD, to have been produced last season?

Rare Fish Taken by Boston Boat

It was the good ship Hesperus that sailed the stormy sea into the Fish Pier today with three rare specimens of the finny tribe aboard.

Two of these were chinaera, the other a blue dolphin. The pair of chinaera are three and five feet long. Only four of the species have been brought into Boston since 1877. They frequent depths of nearly a half mile and are caught on hook and line. The blue dolphin was two feet in length. Both dolphin and chinaera are mostly head.

Captain Robert Griffin, of Hesperus, said the fish were caught while halibuting on the southern edge of Brown's banks.

Price Rise Viewed as Store Problem

Retail merchants during the coming year face the problem of keeping prices of consumer goods from advancing faster than the ability of the consumers to buy them, P. A. O'Connell, president of E. T. Slattery, told the opening class in trade association management at Boston University.

Mother's Gown of Satin Worn by Bride

MISS FAITH HODGES LAMONT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blair Lamont of 20 Winthrop road, Lexington, was married at 8 o'clock last evening in Hancock Church, Lexington, to Mr. Graeme Macleod, son of Judge and Mrs. Frederick J. Macleod of Brookline.

The Rev. Dr. Ashley Day Leavitt of Harvard Congregational Church, Brookline, and the Rev. Robert W. Putch of Hancock Congregational Church, officiated at the ceremony which was performed at the chancel before a background of hemlock and cedar brought from the wilderness summer home of the bride's parents in Maine. Masses of white gladioli and tall white tapers made a beautiful setting.

In Mother's Gown

The bride was lovely in her mother's bridal gown of ivory satin and old lace with a court train. She wore a long flowing veil and her cap of old lace was caught with orange blossoms. Her flowers were fragrant gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Virginia Lamont was her sister's maid of honor. She wore turquoise blue chiffon velvet in mediaeval style and carried a charming bouquet of gladioli and African daisies in shades of yellow and orange. Miss Grace Laurie of Boston and Miss Lois Proctor of Lexington were her bridesmaids. They wore mediaeval gowns of the same pattern in a lovely shade of yellow and carried bouquets of gladioli and African daisies in the orange shades.

Mr. Sturtevant Burr of Brookline attended Mr. Macleod as best man. In the usher group were the two brothers of the bride, Mr. Harold Blair Lamont, Jr., and Mr. Edmund Saxton Lamont. Also Mr. Homer Doane Sears of Boston, Mr. John Howland of Boston, Mr. John Minns of Newton, and Mr. S. Trafford Hicks, Jr., of Arlington

After the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 20 Winthrop road.

Old Gold Gown

Mrs. Lamont, mother of the bride, wore a gown of old gold crepe, with corsage of white orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. Macleod, the bridegroom's mother, wore kings blue chiffon velvet with a corsage of gardenias.

Mrs. Graeme Macleod attended the Emma Willard School in Troy, N. Y., for three years. She was graduated from Buckingham School and has been studying at Stuart Club and Child-Walker School of Fine Arts for the past two years. The bridegroom prepared at Newton Country Day School and attended Williams College and Harvard University. His clubs include Pi Eta; T. S. and University Club of Boston. He wrote and produced the Pi Eta Show of 1934.

The bride is descended on her mother's side from distinguished early American families tracing back to the days of the Providence Plantations and Roger Williams. One of her great grandparents, General Spafford, with Governor Chittenden, founded the City of Burlington, Vermont.

Mr. Macleod and his bride will make their home in Boston on their return from their wedding trip.

Bridge Party for Hospital

The Woman's Charity Club is holding a co-operative bridge party at the Brae Burn Country Club in West Newton, on October 17, at 2 o'clock. The party is being given for the benefit of the Massachusetts Women's Hospital, which is the only organization of its kind in New England that is entirely owned and maintained by women and for which a federated club devotes its entire energies to its support.

At the present time the Massachusetts Women's Hospital is very much in need of assistance from the general public, as there is an urgent demand for its free service.

Mrs. Marion Charlot of Weston is serving as general chairman of the committee arranging this party, and her assistants include Mrs. Carl Webster of Winter Hill, who has charge of the sale of candy and nuts; Mrs. Roger Randall of Brookline, chairman of the usher committee, and Mrs. Edwin P. Crawe of Newton, who is cooperating with Mrs. Charlot on the prize committee. Mrs. Crawe is president of the club as well as president of the board of trustees of the hospital.

Care of Parents Brings Bequest

Mrs. Ellin McMullin of Weymouth inherited $2000, according to the terms of a will filed in Dedham Probate Court. The bequest was made because she had agreed to take care of her parents as long as they lived. The will was a joint one to be filed for probate after Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Landry, parents of Mrs. McMullin, had died. Five other children were cut off.

Secretary Willed Year's Vacation

In recognition of long and faithful service as his private secretary, Charlotte P. MacDonald, was given a year's vacation with pay in the will of Henry D. FOOTBALL WEATHER BRINGS OUT WARM SUEDE COATS, GAY WOOLEN HATS

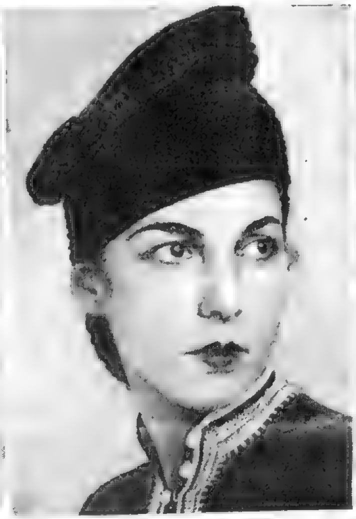
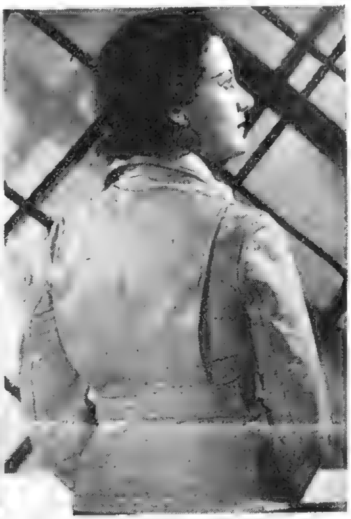
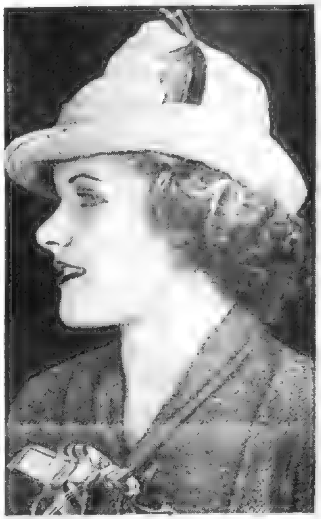
AN ENGLISH PAISLEY square gives the distinctive touch to tweeds or the tailored collar of your favorite shirtmaker frock. The secret of a well-draped 'kerchief is that it be long enough to double around the neck, with ends tied under the chin.



COSSACK in its height and rakish roll over the right eye is this band-crocheted softie. Equally good with an afternoon frock of Russian persuasion or high-necked knit and sports things. The loose top flange can be draped at any angle.



BI-SWING, the favorite back treatment of smart sports jackets, is found in a supple, soft-toned suede of woodsy brown or green. With several skirts, the jacket may be the means of giving an impression of a crammed sports wardrobe.



A PULL HERE and a pull there, and this hand-crocheted bonnet becomes one of the smartest the Tyrol has inspired. Roll the brim up on the sides, pull it straight out in front, and let the double-peaked crown crumple where it may

Daring Lipstick Is Triumph for the Vivid Sophisticate

By Juliet Shelby

YOU'LL FEEL AS THOUGH you've spent a night of romance on the sands at Bali, after a daub to the lips of a vivid sophisticated new lipstick that virtually has captured some of the strange, stirring magic of the enchanted South Seas.

You may say, "An exotic, clinging lipstick is all right for Constance Bennett, but I can't get away with it."

If you are clever with a lipstick, there is no end to what you can do with your lips, particularly if you are young and experimentation is in your line

October is one of the hardest of months, not only because it means a readjustment to city and home life again, but because it offers a complete turn-over in clothes and ideas. In planning your new fall wardrobe, why not include a re-do in cosmetics for your lips and your eyes and your hair.

What kind of a lipstick will it be? By all means, if you are fashion wise, choose one that will really stay, smooth and tempting on your lips all day. I know of a new lipstick that is actually indelible and that has a clear transparency to amaze you. It was created for the beauty-wise sophisticate and is subtle and daring and that's about all one lipstick should be.

It comes in an exquisite silver-metal case with silhouette dancing figures, and there are four exciting colors to further thrill you.

To learn the name of this sophisticated new lipstick, phone Juliet Shelby, Liberty 4000. Or if you prefer writing for this information, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Shelby, Boston Evening American, Boston.

Oil Beautifies Eye Lashes

Question: Can you prescribe anything that will tend to lengthen my eyebrows and lashes? Is it quite all right to wear bedroom slippers during the day without injuring the feet? M. M., Boston.

Answer: Try castor oil on your brows and lashes, it is often very effective in helping to increase the growth. You can also use an eyelash darkener or grower to groom and darken the lashes and brows.

If your bedroom slippers have little heels it is all right to wear them during the day. As a rule it is better to wear shoes or slippers that have some semblance of heel.

Tiny Veins

Question: My skin is inclined to dryness. Underneath the skin can be perceived tiny, red veins, which give to my skin a noticeable ruddy cast. Please help me. —M. W., Winchester.

Answer: Your skin, evidently, is the very thin sensitive type.

Therefore you should not attempt anything as drastic as bleaching, as this treatment would be too strong for your type of skin. The best thing to do is to give it the best of protective care. Use plenty of lubricating cream, both cleansing and nourishing. Avoid strong soaps, hot water—use tepid water and a mild soap and rinse in warm, then quite cool water, but never use ice on your skin.

It is essential, too, to keep the blood, which flows through the surface tissues of your face and neck, flowing energetically General exercise, deep breathing, brisk walking, which stimulate circulation through all the body, will help circulation in the skin as well. This will tend to keep the tiny veins that run so close to the surface of your thin skin from becoming congested.

Chic Pantry Ensemble

By MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9166

Ensembles have become so very necessary in the modern wardrobe that now we're inviting them to "come into the kitchen." And what a gay plan it is. A well-tailored house frock, with its blouse scalloped down the center in a very feminine way—roomy raglan sleeves—wide revers in the very latest mode—goes hand in hand with a trim apron which slips on over it and can be removed in a jiffy. Can you think of anything better suited for the busy housewife who likes to be as dainty as her more leisurely sisters?

Pattern 9166 may be ordered only in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Dress: size 36 requires 3¾ yards 36-inch fabric, and apron, 1⅜ yards contrasting.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE

By Adele Garrison

CHAPTER 157

AS MARY made her jocular reference to the "blonde menace" and "losing her man," she sent a provocative glance at Noel from under lowered lashes. It was the look of a woman thoroughly sure of herself and of the man she loved—so sure that she could risk flinging at him a gibe upon a subject loaded with potential dynamite.

I found myself waiting almost breathlessly for Noel's reply. Sensitive, high-spirited, his moods are so often attuned to seriousness rather than to lightness that I was afraid he would make the blunder either of resenting her quip, or of seriously protesting it.

But, miraculously, he did neither. With a smile in which were blended gamin mirth and the tenderness which is never absent from his voice or face when with Mary, he gave a retort of which I thoroughly approved.

"Blondes have always been my weakness," he half hummed, half-recited, "but if you'll promise to hold my hand very tight, I'll try not to jump over the traces."

Her eyelashes were no longer lowered. She threw back her head and looked at him with pretty defiance.

"Big boy, ef yoh don' stand hitched foh the next few houahs, hit's goin' to be jest too bad foh yon an' evybody," she said. "Me, I've got a razah in mah stockin' an' a gat undah each elbow. Ahm bad'"

MADGE WARNS MARY AND NOEL

Save the rest of it, Mary," I admonished, "and, if you're ready, we'll go through the hall and into the dining room that way."

"I think it's only fair to warn you," I said, "that Avis is in full war panoply. She has an elaborate green and silver gown, which she is determined to wear as bridesmaid, and which we are equally determined to keep from spoiling the color scheme of the wedding processional. She has appealed to me to let her wear it, and she no doubt will appeal to both of you also. Please be adamant."

"A concrete highway has nothing on me," Mary said. "What about you, Noel? What are you going to answer when Avis looks at you with those limpid blue eyes and plead to be permitted to wear the green and silver gown?"

"I shall grab the woman nearest me," Noel retorted, "hide behind her, and bleat that I don't know anything about women's dresses."

"Bravo, darling!" Mary patted his shoulder approvingly "You're getting better by the minute Come on; let's give Avis the once over. Or—perhaps I'd better run up and put on something more elaborate, so I won't be so completely overshadowed."

She took a dancing step or two toward the staircase, but Noel caught her and swung her around masterfully-toward him.

"If you don't stop baiting me," he threatened, "I shall sling you over my shoulder as if you were a sack of potatoes, carry you into the living room and deposit you in Avis Allen's lap."

"That isn't a threat, that's a promise," she told him, wrinkling her nose at him. "It would almost be worth it to see what our dear young friend would do. But I'll be good; so come along, and let's get the glad-welcoming-hand business over with. After you, Aunt Madge."

But I stepped back and waved them on.

"This is strictly your party," I told them, then followed in their wake as they walked into the dining room where the young people were gathered chatting with Avis, who was proving a valiant trencherwoman in disposing of the viands Katie had prepared for her supper.

"Oh, my dears!" she said, with something of the air of a queen rewarding her subjects. "How perfectly delightful to see you again."

She floated toward them—there is no other word to describe the progress of that green and silver gown down the room—and held out a hand to each of them.

"It's so sweet of you to let me be one of your bridesmaids, Mary," she cooed. "I'm simply thrilled to tears about it. I love you both so much. And now I'm going to ask you a teenty weenty bit of favor. May I talk to No-el just a minute or two, all by myself? There's something I want to ask him."

Gracious Reply

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

On Sunday my cousin said "Let's think of the name we each like best." I selected Louise, my other cousins selected Ruth, Alice, Peggy Ann and other names. Then the lady who works for my cousin said she liked the name "Carol" . . . which is my name . . . and that she liked me, too. Will you kindly tell me what I should have said to her?

TEN-YEAR-OLD READER.

Welcome again to my column . . . I recognized your handwriting and name and was delighted to hear from my young reader again . . . and SUCH a young and charming reader!

When people say such delightful things as this friend said to you we may say something like this in response: "Thank you so much. I'm glad that you like me!" or "Aren't you kind to me! I'm so delighted that you like my name and I'm so happy that you like me."

Defense's Brilliant Refusal to Ruff Defeats Contract

By Josephine Culbertson

In a rubber game at Crockford's Club recently I was fortunate enough to witness one of the most carefully thought-out defenses I have seen in a long while. The Declarer got to a four-spade contract which should make in a great majority of cases, and followed up the bidding by playing the hand in the best possible manner. The West player, however, even though he was confronted from start to finish by a series of difficult situations, came through with flying colors and eventually succeeded in defeating the contract.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

West	North / South	East
	♠K643 ♡74 ◇9754 ♣1084
	♠AQ98 ♡K103 ◇AQJ ♣AK5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠ (1)	Pass
3NT	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

(1) A definitely shaded raise. However, North knew his partner was one who was loathe to make two-bids and decided the four trumps to the King and the doubleton justified giving his partner one chance.

West's first problem was the opening lead. The heart and diamond tenaces were automatically discarded, as to lead either one of those suits would almost certainly give up a trick. Faced with the choice between a low trump from a possible trump winner and the club Jack, West chose the latter as the lesser of evils.

On the club lead Dummy played low and East signaled with the seven-spot, the Declarer winning the trick with the Ace. South immediately decided, since he could not get to Dummy sufficient times to take all his finesses, to give up a diamond trick and thus possibly set up the thirteenth diamond for the club discard. He laid down the diamond Queen, and West won the trick with the King returning his other club. East covered Dummy's card, and South won the trick with the King. South now laid down the Ace of Spades and then the Queen.

Having established the spade finesse, he now laid down his two top diamonds, setting up the thirteenth in Dummy, and followed with the spade nine. At this point West was confronted with another problem. He realized that if he did not cover, the nine would hold the trick, the last trump would be drawn, and the Declarer's last club would be discarded on Dummy's good diamond.

A heart would then be led from Dummy and the Declarer could then play any card high enough to beat East's play, forcing West to win the trick. West, of course, would then have no choice but to lay down his high heart and continue with another heart, thus giving Declarer his tenth trick. West, therefore, realized that he must cover the spade so that Dummy's last entry would be removed while he (West) still had a spade in his own hand.

Declarer of course, won the trick with the King in Dummy and now led his good diamond, discarding a club from his own hand. At this point West made the finest play of all. After having previously covered the spades so that he could retain a trump to ruff the diamond, he now failed to make use of this ruff but allowed the good diamond to win. West, realizing that if he trumped the diamond he would have nothing left to play but a heart and that he would thus have to give to the Declarer an all-important heart trick, deliberately sacrificed one trick with the hope of gaining two more later.

After the nine of diamonds held the trick the declarer was helpless. Marking West for the heart ace, he led a heart from Dummy and played the ten-spot from his own hand. West won with the Queen and of course, exited with the trump which he had so carefully retained South finally had to give up the last two heart tricks and the contract was defeated 1 trick

Limited Fruit Diet Requires Brown Rice, Rich in Vitamin B

By MARTHA LEE

RICE is an important cereal and perhaps we do not always make the most of it. Do you know that you can buy white rice, brown rice, wild rice, rice flour and crisp ready-to-eat rice cereals?

If your meals provide plenty of vitamins and minerals in the form of vegetables, fruits and other whole grain products, you can choose white rice, if you like it best. White or polished rice has the outer bran coating removed. It contains no appreciable amounts of vitamins, but it is valuable in the diet, because it is an excellent starch or fuel food, delicately flavored

Brown rice has not been polished. Its outer coating is rich in vitamin B, and in a diet where vegetables and fruits are limited, brown rice is a better choice.

Wild rice is grown in the middle northern part of the United States and in Canada. The crop is not large, and it is not available in all markets. Wild rice has a flavor that is just right with meat, especially fowl It is at its best with game.

A delicious rice product, found in all markets, is ready-to-eat cereal in the form of toasted bubbles of rice. It has many uses in cooking, as well as being a prepared breakfast food.

Meat dishes, especially chop sueys, are delicious with ready-to-serve rice cereal in place of boiled rice. The crisp rice bubbles are also good sprinkled over the top of meat pies instead of pastry or on other casserole dishes. With this versatile cereal, you can make an interesting dessert, too, which requires no cooking at all, only chilling in the refrigerator.

RICE PILAU

1½ lbs. meat
3 cups water
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ cup rice
4 tbsps. butter or other fat

Place the meat in the cold water with the seasoning and bring it slowly to the boiling point, removing the scum that rises to the surface. Cook it just under the boiling point for 30 minutes, or until the meat is about half cooked. Pour the broth into a double boiler, add the rice, which has been washed thoroughly, and cook it until tender. The rice will absorb the broth and the grains will be unbroken. Add the fat just before removing the rice to serve. While the rice is being cooked, finish cooking the meat by browning it in the oven or in an iron kettle on top of the stove When both rice and meat are cooked pile the rice on a platter and place the meat on the rice.

SEAMEN FACE NEW FEDERAL TESTS

Washington, Oct 4—As a means of improving [illegible] crews in the American merchant fleet, commerce department officials are considering the possibility of legislation to help ship operators sift out undesirable seamen.

Such legislation would be another step in the department's new safety-at-sea program which began operation when a naval officer embarked from New York to make inspections of American passenger vessels authorized by Secretary Roper.

Joseph B Weaver newly appointed head of the department bureau of navigation and steamboat inspection, said seamen now are merely required to present cards showing they are able seamen and no questions can be asked them.

OLD HOUSES MADE MODERN BY LOANS

Laundry Chute Among Suggested Home Improvements

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

(This is the 21st of a series of articles explaining the new National Housing Act, which, under facilities developed by the Federal Housing Administration, enables home owners to obtain inexpensive, easy-to-repay loans for improving or repairing their homes.)

A laundry chute with openings on all floors, is the quickest and most sanitary way of conveying soiled linens and clothing and disposing of them until wash day. [illegible] heavy [illegible] burdens downstairs and bathroom or hall space is not taken up with hampers.

This project is but one of many by which the home can be improved.

To Walter M. of Milford:

It is possible for you to obtain a loan for remodeling your two-family house into a three-tenement property, providing your financial condition is such that the bank will feel warranted in making a loan to you. The interest rate is 5 per cent discount and you may have up to five years, according to the disposition of the bank, in which to repay the amount of money borrowed. The Home National Bank of Milford and the Milford National Bank and Trust Company are qualified to make such loans under the Federal Housing Administration regulations. You should take your application to either of these two banks.

HOUSING EDITOR.

To Susie A. M. of Hyde Park.

It is necessary in all loans under this plan to make regular monthly payments, and since you say that you would be unable to take on another mortgage it does not seem likely that you would be in a position to assume another obligation that would require that you make periodic payments. Your position at the present time, from your statement to me, does not seem to offer much encouragement. However, the easiest way for you to find out is to go to a bank having a contract of insurance and make application. Try your local bank first. Perhaps if you go to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation—the Dedham office—they may be able to advise you along other lines.

HOUSING EDITOR.

To John F. MacR of Mattapan:

If you will go to your local bank, they will advise you if they are insured under the Federal Housing Act and if so, they will be in a position to make a loan to you for the repair of your camp, providing your other circumstances warrant it.

HOUSING EDITOR.

To Mr. K. of Charlestown

The limit of a loan under the provisions of the Federal Housing Act is $2000. If you are willing to give a mortgage, you can go to any bank and make application in the usual way for a mortgage in the amount mentioned.

HOUSING EDITOR.

Rickenbacker Warns U. S. of Weak Air Defense

By Universal Service

Washington, Oct 4—America's air defenses are woefully inadequate, Colonel Eddie Rickenbacker, celebrated war-time ace, declared here, painting a gruesome picture of the fate of nations with weak air forces in the next war.

Appearing before the federal aviation commission, Rickenbacker urged a 10-year expansion program quadrupling the size and effectiveness of U. S. air services. He declared:

"Entire armies will be moved by plane and dirigible. There will be artillery battles in the air as well as on the land."

America is second to none in the competence of her pilots, he said, but he added that in equipment and training in warfare, this country is far behind others.

Burning cities by sun rays focused through large lenses held aloft by airships, and transportation of heavy tanks over the enemy lines to crush fortifications, were among advanced methods Rickenbacker said he expected in the next war.

Commenting on the proposal of Brigadier General William Mitchell for a fleet capable of flying to Japan, Rickenbacker said:

"I would use planes to make love to Japan."

He said America and Japan should join in operation of a trans-Pacific air line, connecting also with Hawaii and the Philippines.

A & P CANNED SALES HEAVY

Planned as a feature of the celebration of the chain's 75th anniversary, the sale of new pack 1934 crop canned vegetables is proving a big success in Atlantic and Pacific food stores, the management said today.

Many customers, they said, are taking advantage of the special sale to buy goods in case lots, a move of more than ordinary good judgment in view of present indications of higher food prices within the next few months.

Joseloff Given $26,625 Verdict

New York, Oct. 4—Morris Joseloff, head of a chain of stores in New England, won a $26,625 judgment here against the International Art Galleries of London, on allegations that six paintings he purchased from them were spurious.

He paid $40,000 for the paintings, which included one represented as a portrait by Gainsborough and two by Sir Joshua Reynolds, and [illegible] that experts here held them to be not as represented. He sued for the difference between what he paid and the amount the experts held the paintings were worth.

[AN OLD GOLD SMOKER SINCE 1932]

Dear Miss Colbert:-

Old Gold's story is indeed an important story for women. But we cannot tell it nearly so well as Old Gold tells it for itself!

The woman who smokes Old Gold experiences for herself the coolness, the smoothness, the friendly throat-ease of this truly different cigarette. She discovers, too, that in its freedom from oily, artificial flavoring, Old Gold is a cleaner, as well as a smoother, smoke . . . leaving no objectionable odor in fabrics or on the breath.

We repeat, Old Gold's story is indeed an important story for women. But we cannot tell it nearly so well as Old Gold tells it for itself!

Sincerely,

P. LORILLARD COMPANY, INC.

ESTABLISHED 1760

P. S.—We hope you'll keep on telling your friends, Miss Colbert, that: No better tobacco grows than is used in Old Gold. And it's pure. That's why Old Golds are easy on the THROAT and NERVES.

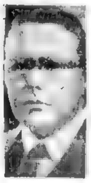
INSIDE STORY OF MARILYN ROMANCE

This Is Life by ROBERT E. ROGERS



Robert E. Rogers

The recent reports of what is going on in the German universities suggest distinct hopes for a new kind of effective opposition to the Hitler policies. It is true that a good deal of his former support came from university graduates, but we are told that they were the disappointed rebels against the system which left them without occupation or opportunity in a society bungled (as they felt) by the ineptitude and liberalism of the former Socialist government. They fell under the spell of Hitler and became important parts of his storm-troop movement.

But these are the younger men, still undergraduates, who perhaps are finding that the Hitler promises are not necessarily working out any better than the previous Socialist fact. Furthermore there is a strong tradition in Germany that the universities are the strongholds of freedom, that it was the university men, who, after Jena and the humiliation of Prussia, did so much to kindle the flame of national patriotism and militant liberalism, which helped to overthrow Napoleon.

The immediate cause of the dispute now in process seems trivial, but many a strong revolutionary movement has started with trivialities. The German university is, traditionally, much more a voluntary association of students and scholars than it is a disciplinary organization of curricular studies and social life, as it is here. Men move about freely from one university to another. The faculty IS the university, except for governmental control. At least it is not managed by lay trustees, rich men who know little about the problems of education and who are very leery of anything that can be called "academic freedom."

One of the old freedoms of German students is the right to band together into corps, which have a little resemblance to fraternities, without the Greek letter nonsense. I understand that they are entered by invitation, and develop a strong bond of brotherhood by three means: the general custom of wearing the corps uniform of cap and scarf in the corps colors, the frequent obligatory ceremonial meetings and beer-drinkings according to ritual, and the corps duels between brothers of the same corps and, occasionally, between members of rival corps. They furnish a colorful, spirited and influential kind of social life amid the general drab, unregimented and studious atmosphere of the place.

The Nazi youth organization, or one of them, now proposes to abolish all that is especially characteristic of the corps, a highly aristocratic and traditional institution. Corps-bruders are apparently willing to discipline themselves in the corps tradition, but they are objecting strongly, according to latest reports, to being dragooned by Nazi-inspired regulations by their own contemporaries. They are refusing to sleep in barracks with the rest of the common herd, to give up their caps and scarves and don an obligatory Nazi uniform, and, presumably, to give up their characteristic meetings and lose themselves in the great level flood of National Socialism.

I suspect that the students who were in our American colleges during the war know just how these German university students feel. There existed an organization known as the S. A. T. C., the Student Army Training Corps, for those students who either were too young to go into service or who hadn't yet been called in the draft.

They lived in hastily constructed barracks, they wore ill-fitting olive drab. They were organized in military fashion, marched to and from classes by corporals and sergeants, carried on military routine. I suppose that never in history did college or university accomplish so little of the work they were intended for as during those months.

One would get a class going, when suddenly the door would barge open, a non-com would walk in and requisition a third or a half of your class for the mysteries of the military life, policing barracks or grounds, or something utilitarian of the sort. The boys lived by bugle calls, and they slept under the eye of Uncle Sam. And they took history lectures on "The Issues of the War," which was as near pure propaganda about the spiritual purity of the Allies and the cussedness of the Central Powers as the consciences of the instructors, under Washington orders, would allow.

When it ended, very suddenly, after the Armistice, everyone, students and teachers alike, gave a great big pouf of relief. Well, I suppose the Nazi control of the universities will be worse and more of it, a great deal of military embroidery, plenty of regimental singing of the violent Nazi songs, and (presumably) constant testing and espionage to insure rigid Nazi orthodoxy.

Already they are protesting. It may come to more than that. For the European university tradition is a tradition of freedom and liberalism, and boys who can judge Nazism by its promises and performances may not be quite so enthusiastic about it as were their disappointed and unemployed elder brothers. It's worth watching, anyway.

PONZI TO SAIL SUNDAY; BEARS NO ILL WILL

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Clad in a maroon dressing gown over a neat gray suit, the dapper little man who blew up a $10,000,000 financial bubble in 1921, gave his last interview at the East Boston immigration station.

Sunday he will be go aboard the Italian liner Vulcania at Commonwealth Pier and leave this country because the government has ruled that his "50 per cent in 45 days" scheme constituted moral turpitude.

BOOKS FIRST CLASS

Ponzi will sail as a first class passenger. It is understood he was allowed to add the money for first class accommodations on the ship to what the government paid the steamship line for his third class passage.

There was a touch of the dramatic as the little Italian recalled that he will land back in Italy nearly exactly 31 years after he left as a youth of 21 to seek his fortune.

"And here I am, kicked out!"

The phrase preceded a good-will message that he finally decided to leave to the American public. He left it today because immigration authorities had decreed that he must meet the press no more before deportation. The message was:

BEARS NO ILL-WILL

"I leave without any hard feelings and with no regrets. I will miss my friends. Give America my message of goodwill."

Ponzi repeated previous statements that his loyal wife, Rose Ponzi, would join him in Italy when he established himself. He said he gave up his fight against deportation because it was a case of "either going insane or leaving in a pine box."

At the end of the interview he gave away a secret that had been guarded by immigration authorities. He said they planned to transport him to Commonwealth Pier on the immigration boat Marietta when sailing time comes Sunday.

"They are keeping it secret but I am not bound to secrecy," was his comment.

The move, immigration officials stated later, was to avoid any demonstration that might develop with Ponzi's leaving.

Newsprint Price Stabilized at $41

New York, Oct. 3—The newsprint committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association learns from reliable sources that the price of newsprint for 1935 has been stabilized at the present figure of $41 per ton, delivered New York and Chicago (less port allowance) by contracts closed between large consumers and producers.

Speare Hints at New 'Y' Building

With the Y M C A building on Huntington avenue, turned over entirely to Northeastern University, Boston is apt to have a new "Y" building in the heart of the city, President Frank Palmer Speare of Northeastern University hinted, in an address at the Old Timers' dinner of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Spies' Hope Fades

Paris, Oct. 4 (INS)—The last hope of immunity for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, youthful Americans, apparently faded from the horizon today when it was disclosed their confessions in France's famous international spy case were incomplete.

Third Love Comes on Tiptoe

It was a kick in the pants—literally—that awoke Marilyn Miller's third romance. Her toe accidentally struck her dancing partner. The chorus man-stage manager rebuked the partner, and in turn was rebuked and "got through." Marilyn sided with him, and now they're wedded. He is Chet O'Brien.

Mulloney Called as Witness in New York Inquest

Word from New York, that Daniel C. Mulloney, convicted head of the closed Federal National Bank, will be subpoenaed for appearance at an inquest in New York at 11 a. m., Monday, snarled up matters in Boston today.

Mulloney, found guilty on a charge of misapplication of $131,000 in the Federal National funds, is scheduled to be sentenced in Federal court here at 2 p. m. Monday, and could hardly be at a New York inquest at 11 and in Boston at 2.

What the inquest is federal officials in Boston did not know today, but they said they will attempt to have United States Attorney Martin Conboy of New York defer the inquest until after Mulloney is sentenced.

Hanfy Silent on Rejection

By Associated Press

Berlin, Oct. 4—Dr. Ernst F. Hanfstaengl, Harvard graduate, whose offer of a scholarship to his alma mater has been rejected, refused to comment today, "until I hold the authentic letter in my hands." When informed of the decision in Cambridge, he said:

"In consonance with the most primitive law of courtesy, I naturally will not comment until the letter from Harvard authorities is before me."

Destroyer Put in Commission Here

Launched at Bath, Me., last July the destroyer Dewey was commissioned at the navy yard today by Rear Admiral Henry Hough, commandant of the First Naval District.

Commander Harry W. Hill, formerly of the U. S. S. California, is in command of the new vessel which has a complement of nine officers and 134 men. She is a sister ship of the Farragut, completed at the Fore River yard last summer.

Because the government wanted to pay her for her work, Mrs. Mary McManus, who volunteered as local ERA supervisor of women's activities, resigned her position.

LOVE BORN IN FIERY TIFF IN 'AS THOUSANDS CHEER'

By MAX WALES

Marilyn Miller's new romance and husband are [illegible] with the story of her withdrawal from the cast of "As Thousands Cheer," it was revealed today.

Clifton Webb, male star of the show, which is now at the Shubert, told for the first time the inside story of his trouble with Charles L. (Chet) O'Brien, who eloped with the blonde dancing star and secretly married her in Harrison, N. Y., on Monday.

O'Brien was discharged from the show and Marilyn quit Webb said, because of a series of happenings—"decidedly unpleasant"—that involved Marilyn, O'Brien, Webb and Jimmy Donahue, five and ten heir.

'BRUSHED' AGAINST HIM

Webb described O'Brien as the former "assistant to the assistant" stage manager of the show.

It all began last March. Said Webb:

"I suppose they were courting them. I dont' know. Let everyone take care of his own business."

The curtain had just rung down [illegible] with Webb voicing a toast, glass in hand, when Marilyn, hurrying across-stage to her dressing room . . .

"Brushed against me," said Webb.

HEIR IN SUB ROLE

Four nights later, Webb said, the "brush" happening was repeated. He continued.

"O'Brien came to my dressing room. I ordered him to leave, threatening to have Harris fire him. O'Brien begged me not to and said he would give notice. Things quieted down them. The word went around the company that if O'Brien left Marilyn would leave. Finally, O'Brien apologized and we shook hands.

"One Sunday in July, Marilyn and O'Brien were with me and others at a party on Jimmy Donahue's yacht. The next night O'Brien secretly had Donahue substitued as one of the princes on the stage in one of the scenes. He did this deliberately to disturb my stage presence.

THEN IT'S WEDLOCK

"After the scene the only remark I made was, 'Charming! We're having amateur theatricals tonight!'

"The stage manager fired O'Brien on the spot. Three or four weeks later Marilyn quit the show."

And so O'Brien, who is 25, and Marilyn, who is 30, she says, but 36 according to Who's Who in the Theater, on Monday gave her chorus boy a leading role for life as her husband in a secret wedding at Harrison, N. Y.

The dancing star's third marriage—her first was Frank Carter, her second Jack Pickford—took place amid the surrounding of an interrupted barn dance at which numerous of the Harrisonites were attired in rube outfits, wearing false whiskers and the like. It was just like the finale of a musical show.

Bridgeport High Strikers Return

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 4 (AP)—Less than one-third of the 187 Central High school students suspended for their participation in the strike against the present class schedule have been permitted to return to their studies, Principal James C. Moore said today.

About fifty students, whose parents conferred with Principal Moore, have been reinstated. Bassick High school students, warned to attend classes or be suspended, all returned to school Principal Joseph E. Jeffery said.

DR. BOOS STORY HITS STATE

Despite the government's contention that Miss Alice G. Porter of Medford was murdered by being given arsenic in cocoa, there was no cocoa found in her organs, it was testified today at the trial of Samuel J. Catino, charged with her murder.

Dr. William F. Boos, Harvard toxicologist and a government witness, under cross-examination by Attorney William R. Scharton, counsel for Catino, said that there was no evidence of cocoa in the stomach.

Witness and cross - examiner clashed frequently during today's session at the Middlesex Superior Court trial of Catino, former "handy man" for the allegedly slain Medford school teacher.

Despite the clashes, however, it was Dr. Boos who came to Scharton's rescue when the lawyer had difficulty in reading his notes, taken during direct examination because Scharton had broken his glasses last night.

When Scharton announced his difficulty other counsel came forward with their glasses, all of which the lawyer tried on and rejected without satisfaction.

Then Dr. Boos proffered his glasses and Scharton fitted them on, announcing with satisfaction that they were "just right."

Dr. Boos testified that from his tests of the organs and the fact that he found more than one and a half grains of arsenic in the tissues examined he was of the opinion that there was at least another grain in the body.

Boy Stabbed in Appetite Row

Alfred Cecere, 20, of Gore road, Revere, was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital today with a stab wound in his back—suffered, according to police, because his younger brother was hungry and sliced some bread.

According to an admission, declared by police to have been made by Carmin Cecere, 18, he was cutting himself a slice of bread when Alfred began to jibe him on his big appetite.

Carmin, incensed, turned on his brother, forgetting he held the knife in his hand, he said. Alfred half turned to escape the blow, but received the knife blade in the back.

Neither boy considered the wound serious, and they both went to bed after making up. Early today however when another brother arrived home he found Alfred weak from loss of blood and called a doctor.

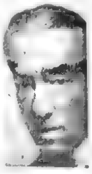
Former Boston Editor is Dead

D. Crommett Clark, 65, a native of Bucksport, Maine, and a former newspaperman, died in his home in Somerville from injuries received when struck by an automobile last Friday. He served at one time as night editor of the old Boston Advertiser.

His widow, Adelaide, and daughter, Adelaide survive.

O. O. McIntyre NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

New York, Oct. 4—New Yorkers have rediscovered Mexico City as a playground. Just as the famous Aztec capital seemed to have settled down to a chronic decadence, it suddenly geysered into social activity. The state of the American dollar abroad had much to do with the influx.



O. O. McIntyre

But the bigger reason was the magnificent motor road that has opened up along the 700 miles from Laredo, Texas, to the Chapultepec area. The drive and scenes winding through the crawling hills have been compared by travelers to Amalfi, Corniche, the Alps or the road from Beirut to Damascus.

Anyway, all the Mexico City hotels are filled, and for the first time in nine years new hotels and other buildings are going up. Even the long uncompleted opera house, so long a midtown eyesore, has again received the attention of the builders. And expects to open this winter.

Mexico City's broad avenues, tree-lined, have always been remindful of Paris. Back of them, too, are the narrow, twisting streets of the French capital. Also there are the sidewalk cafes. So long has the city been prostrate that even the restoration of normal business suggests a super-boom.

"The Stratosphere," swanky night club on the 65th floor of a Radio center building, may puff a breath of life into the dying night clubs. But not many believe the resuscitation will be permanent. At least 50 clubs open last winter will not brave this season. It has become a passe entertainment, largely on account of the depression, but also because patrons are fed up. And in lieu of some diversion to supplant it, people are going home.

* * *

After a medley of rumors that it would become a beer hall, a penny arcade, a freak museum and the like, the Winter Garden again fulfills its original intention of presenting musical shows. The Winter Garden has an out-of-town clientele that is never failing. When coming to town they merely ask their hotel agency for "tickets to the Winter Garden."

The Winter Garden, however, has grown comparatively sedate with years. Its jokes may still be a shade off color and its fleshiness pronounced, but it has none of the jovial commonness of its glass runway days, when almost naked ladies wiggled down the aisles for the bald and cigar-smoking rams. It came the nearest to the continental idea of vulgarity the town has ever known. A perfect background for such sensuous imports as Gaby Deslys, Delysia and the like. And the Sunday evening "exercises" were a high-spot. The colorful figures of Broadway, the big shot gamblers, crepe de chine ladies and half-world razmataz. It was old Broadway at its Broadwayiest.

Damon Runyon was set to crack all reportorial records wide open on a recent Saturday. During the day he was to ride in a special plane, swinging from the International Yacht Races to The Futurity at Belmont and then to the Polo Matches at Meadow Brook. And wind up the fabulous day by occupying a ringside seat at the Ross-McLarnin fight at the Bowl in Long Island City. But Jupiter pluved it all up.

The army of street pitchmen have had the biggest season in years. The depression causes many who once passed the curb seller with a glance to pause a moment—and once one loiters one is lost. Too, the police are more tolerant than they used to be. Billboard tells weekly in a column called "Pipes," done in pitchmen's patter, of the men who work peelers, corn punk, hose-mending needles, etc., etc.

Thingumabobs: Grace Moore once understudied Julia Sanderson . . . Dorothy Thompson travels nowhere without her dachshund . . . Noel Coward, off the stage for a season recuperating, is writing a novel . . . Isabel Ross, the novelist, loves to write on speeding express trains . . . Will Cuppy calls his home near Jones Beach Tottering-on-the-Brink . . . But we still prefer Herb Roth's Dandruff-on-the-Knob . . . Earl Carroll's first trip from home was on a freighter to Shanghai, a runaway.

On a 49th street corner this evening I saw a man drop a letter in a mail box with one push and without the after jiggle of the door slot and final plop. I called out: "That's being different." But he didn't understand. He merely stared.

HARVARD BONDS NET $300,000

Washington, Oct. 4—Harvard University gained a profit of $300,000 by "switching" its holdings of Brooklyn, Manhattan Transit bonds, Sinclair Hatch, investigator for the Federal Securities Commission, today in testifying at its probe of an $8,000,000 B-M-T bond issue.

The school purchased $90,000 of the bonds June 14 from J. N. W. Seligman and $60,000 worth the next day from Kuhn, Loeb and Company, he said.

The bonds were purchased at 98¾, while 150,000 other B-M-T issues weer sold by Harvard at 100.

Orchestra to Open Season Oct. 21

The People's Symphony Orchestra will open the season at Jordan Hall on Sunday afternoon, October 21, with Fabien Sevitsky again in the conductor's stand. Two additional evening concerts will be added this season to the regular series of 10 Sunday afternoons.

An all Wagner program, with excerpts from the "Niebelungen Ring" featuring notable soloists, is announced for one of these supplementary concerts.

The presentation of symphony music at reasonable prices is the chief aim of the organization, which also extends the privilege of attending rehearsals to season ticket holders.

Roland Hayes In Concert

Roland Hayes, distinguished Negro tenor, opens the "Celebrity Series" under the direction of Aaron Richmond at Jordan Hall on Wednesday evening, October 24.

Two numbers on Mr. Hayes program will then be heard for the first time in Boston. One a song by Alexander Kre[illegible] eminent young Russian composer of the modernist school and the second a suite of poems by Paul Lawrence Dunbar, set to music by the Negro composer William Rhodes, inspired by African idiomatic rhythms.

'PRINCE' MIKE PAYS $51 TO JOIN UNION

By JOHN KOBLER

(Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service.)

New York, Oct. 4—Shattering the habits of a lifetime, Prince [illegible] and professional, unabashed, has joined a [illegible] union, paying $51.50 for the privilege. And just because he's been hired to be himself!

Sauntering into Actors' Equity headquarters with that cool suavity which has made him a "character" along Broadway, Mike remarked:

"Fancy royalty joining a labor organization!"

NEVER PAID IN LIFE

But that was his fate the day he decided to appear in a new role—an actor with a steady job. In an exclusive interview with Universal Service today, the famous gate-crasher and town cut-up declared:

"I have seldom paid for anything in my life, much less joined an organization of that kind. I hate to be protected, and it certainly was a bit of a strain to plank down $51.50. In fact, it almost killed me.

"When Jack MacGowan and Ray Henderson wrote the musical play, 'Say When,' which is opening soon, they got the heaven-sent idea of writing in a part for me. Word went around Broadway that they were looking for me, but I was—er—scarce at the time.

"The good news reached me at last, and since then I've had six offers for future shows. From now on I'll probably have a regular job. Wonderful!"

BAN NIP OFF

Mike's debut [illegible] has changed his career [illegible] ways than one. Once before he was offered an opportunity to go on the stage but a supreme court judge ruled that [illegible] the fact that he was 'out on bail,' this could not be allowed. But the ban is off on Prince Mike and he is free to do anything he pleases.

DAUGHTERS OF VENUS

By Robert Terry Shannon

SYNOPSIS

Juliet Rankin's pulchritude wins her an executive position in the beauty institute operated by wealthy Madame Hubert. At first Thomas O'Hara, the handsome manager, is antagonistic towards Juliet, but he finally admits he is in love with her and has been trying to fight it. Due to his fatal resemblance to her dead sweetheart, Juliet submits to his caresses.

Finding them together, Dr. Franz Von Guerdon, beauty specialist, also in love with Juliet, is insanely jealous. He threatens to kill Juliet if she bothers with O'Hara, stating that she belongs to him. Later, Juliet tries to convince O'Hara that they do not love each other but were both overcome with emotion that night she permitted him to kiss her.

He shows her an engagement and a wedding ring, saying, "Here's how much I meant it—sap that I was!" Juliet is assigned to work with Von Guerdon. It is when he concentrates on his work, ignoring her, that Juliet likes him best. Katie Schmidt, a homely, poorly dressed, illiterate girl, calls for an estimate on a facial operation.

Without flinching, Katie hears it would cost $3000. Saying "I ain't got it and I will never have that much," she disappears into the obscurity from which she had come. Juliet refuses Von Guerdon's invitation to dinner. That night, lonely and restless, she regrets her action. She even welcomes a visit from meek, little McSpadden, who brings Juliet some plants for her new apartment.

CHAPTER XV.

The cocktail reached McSpadden's taste with a cold, devilish salute. It was sweet and acrid simultaneously and it slipped easily down his throat. Somewhere in his interior it came to rest and resolved into a warm golden bubble that expanded in the region of his solar plexus.

"Very pleasant, isn't it?" he inquired, with a smile.

"I like them once in a while," Juliet admitted. "I was rather down tonight. Do you ever get down, Mr. McSpadden?"

"I never allow myself to," he said as she refilled his glass. "You see, I work in my garden after hours. Then too Mrs. McSpadden is quite a conversationalist."

"I hope your wife isn't jealous?" said Juliet.

McSpadden quietly experimented with the second drink before answering.

"She is and she isn't," he declared profoundly. "I mean, she really isn't because she never has any reason—but you know what wives are. They all like to imagine things, I suppose."

"A SPLENDID WOMAN"

Again the dry coldness of the second went to mingle with the golden glow of his first.

"No, Mrs. McSpadden is a splendid woman. I don't say she hasn't her faults—we all have—but by and large I couldn't have done better. Of course, I don't like arguments myself—never did. For instance, these flowers tonight. She thinks I was carrying them over to a fellow-gardener on this side of town. I mean it saves argument. And there is nothing wrong in it, is there?"

He was so beaming and kindly and innocent that Juliet—had he been a little boy—would have patted him on the unruly hair of his head and sent him home. He was pathetic, but not even cocktails could overcome his dullness.

"What you need," she told him pleasantly, "is one more drink and then I'm going to pack you off home."

A wave of confidence surged through McSpadden and he took the shaker from Juliet's hand.

"Allow me, please."

"Has it ever occurred to you," Juliet asked him suddenly, her mind reverting to business, "that our products, with all those fancy bottles and packages, are rather too expensive? I've been thinking that a much wider distribution might be practicable."

McSpadden balanced himself carefully and considered this thought.

"I'll tell you about that," he said with a captain-of-industry frown. "Our policy has always been to put an expensive product on the market for the select trade."

A BROADER MARKET

Juliet knew this to be true but for some time she had been revolving the idea of a broader market. The Institute was immensely profitable but it served only those women who had plenty of money. Big as it was, there was still opportunity for expansion.

"I was wondering," she said, "if it wouldn't be possible to put up the same product in cheaper packages—under a separate trade name perhaps and sell them through all the ten-cent stores in America. The profit would be small but the volume enormous."

As soon as these words had fallen from Juliet's lips she knew that she had stumbled upon a plan that would revolutionize Madame Hubert's business. It was a golden idea, an inspiration from heaven knew where. It would not destroy what already was established. Juliet's head began to swim.

The actual cost of the preparations was infinitesimal. Why not cut profits and distribute the products as widely as cigarettes or chewing gum? Millions of women have dimes to spend instead of dollars. The thrill of it coursed through every nerve in her body and brought a quickened brilliance to her eyes.

"There wouldn't be any trouble about manufacturing the products in quantities for the chain store trade," began McSpadden, and then oddly he stopped short and glanced at the radio. "That music reminds me—sounds sort of Scottish, doesn't it? Do you know, Miss Rankin, that I once did a Highland Fling at a school entertainment in kilts—I was a lad of six at the time. 'The Campbells are Coming'—ta ta—ta ta ta—ta, ta, ta, ta—"

A LIVELY DANCE

McSpadden, still holding his empty glass, flung one hand over his head and reached the center of the room with a rather rusty whirl. All at once he had completely forgotten the cosmetic business, and so had Juliet for she leaned against the wall and laughed until the tears streaked her face.

"A lively dance, if well done," he tossed over his shoulder to Juliet, and flung out one skinny leg.

But Juliet's attention was diverted from this remarkable exhibition by an imperative rapping upon the hall door.

"Just a minute, please," she told McSpadden, recovering herself.

He did not quite understand.

"I'll hold the posture until you come back!" he cried. A hand was tossed over his head with a rakish Highland air, he still held his cocktail glass and a knobby knee was lifted and held rigidly at attention until Juliet returned.

The door swung open and an angry female voice, like an angry beating on a tin pan, triumphed above Juliet's words.

McSpadden's face wilted. Section by section, the lad of six—in kilts—ceased to exist and there of a frayed and middle-aged husband making a fool of himself. This latter self was all Mrs. McSpadden saw when her enormous figure sailed, all hot and pink and outraged, into the room.

"Good Lord, Emma!" came the sinking cry of despair from the whitening little man. "Why did you follow me?"

For the next three days Juliet's face burned every time she thought of the ignominious spectacle of Mrs. McSpadden literally dragging her chestfallen husband away.

EXPLANATIONS USELESS

Explanations had been useless. The wife, a galleon of a woman magnificently festooned with ear drops and pendants and glassy brooches and bracelets and rings, billowed sternly away with scarcely a word to Juliet. Such a hussy, Mrs. McSpadden considered, was beneath her own righteous dignity.

The whole affair had been absurd and humiliating; wisely, Juliet decided to forget it.

The following week found Juliet installed at what the staff labelled as the "Appointment Desk," but which, in reality, was an office so regal and awe-inspiring and magnificent that even the most arrogant customers felt belittled and intimidated. In this state of inferiority they agreed to the most fantastic charges.

A dozen times the following week Juliet thought sadly of little Katie Schmidt and the tragedy of her complexion, her crossed eye and crooked nose.

Governments Lead in Bond Trading

By Associated Press

New York, Oct. 4.—Bonds generally [illegible] a firm tone today with high-grade issues recording good gains in many instances. Losses were confined to minor fractions as a rule.

U. S. Treasury issues provided the market leadership. Gains in government obligations ranged up to around half a point, and there was [illegible] undertone [illegible] ing in lower-coupon issues and government-guaranteed bonds. Strength in the Treasury list was [illegible]

Among railroad issues, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, St. Paul 5s, Erie 5s, Great Northern 4½s, Union Pacific 4s and Nickel Plate 4½s registered fair sized gains.

[illegible] Pacific Gas 5s, Con[illegible] Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s and Phillips Pe[illegible] improved moderately, while American Telephone 5s, Alleghany 5s and United Drug 5s held [illegible] New York Central [illegible] Northern Pacific 4s, Texas Corp 5s and Bethlehem Steel [illegible]

September Wool Trade in Boston Sharply Reduced

Trade in the Boston wool market during September was almost completely paralyzed. Many mills closed soon after the first of September as a result of the textile strike. Other mills in New England were closed for two weeks during September because of market conditions that did not warrant continued production of goods.

Consumption of wool, therefore was sharply curtailed and the need for further purchases of wool [illegible] during September was [illegible] reduced.

[illegible] in wool [illegible] in August. A few mills continued [illegible] in September [illegible] manufacturing plants. [illegible] however apparently had a [illegible] of their wool requirements [illegible] their purchases were [illegible] small.

[illegible] in foreign wool markets in the past month has not [illegible] character to encourage [illegible] to buy wool ahead [illegible] actual requirements. Prices in [illegible] opened in Brisbane, Australia during August at prices [illegible] favorably with [illegible] the close of the [illegible] end of August at [illegible]

[illegible] a stronger tendency [illegible] 5 per cent [illegible] at the [illegible] week [illegible] noted in price [illegible] the close of the week [illegible] after the middle of September [illegible] series of auctions [illegible] London. During the [illegible] of the London [illegible] prices in London and in Australia [illegible] which preceded seas[illegible] at Melbourne and Perth followed a fairly even trend.

YOUNGER MEN SCARE LESS EASILY

By B. C. FORBES

Change, Change, Change.

That's one inescapable law of life.

B. C. Forbes

Not since its birth as an independent nation has this country experienced more and bigger changes than it is now undergoing.

Here is one disclosure which may contribute somewhat to expediting the solution of current difficulties and arriving at a workable arrangement between govern[illegible]

I find that the majority of employers who are approaching or have reached old age are far more pessimistic and defeatist in their [illegible]

Old men dislike, resent, distrust drastic changes. They are wedded to fixed practices. Their minds are not plastic. Innovations an[illegible] cannot realize [illegible] things have been done [illegible] the ideal [illegible] to do them in this [illegible]

Therefore, they oppose every new business or financial or social or political trend. They shake their heads dolefully over current events and tendencies, sure that nothing but ruin can result unless experiments and all "new-fangled notions" are squelched.

On the other hand, younger men of affairs recognize that the world does not and cannot stand still, recognize that our economic system developed grave weaknesses, recognize that our banking and financing practices were far from perfect. They recognize that there has set in a rising tide of "social legislation" throughout the world; they recognize that American industry and business must be prepared for the enactment of such laws; they recognize that there can be no return to the liberty and license which abounded in the old days of "individualism."

[illegible] are ur[illegible] opposed to the [illegible] Since [illegible] thwarted in having [illegible] rebellious, [illegible] of spoiled children who won't play unless they [illegible] the rules of the game. They are [illegible] to their shells. [illegible] The refuse [illegible] avoidable risk. [illegible] is contraction, not [illegible]

Happily, a majority of enterprises are not dominated by such jelled gentlemen, but by executives younger in years and in ideas, men [illegible] frightened by the prospect of [illegible]

Admittedly, many of them are just as alarmed as are their elders over certain parts of the new deal. They dislike the rush towards state socialism. They are more or less appalled by the magnitude of governmental expenditures and the consequent tax prospects.

They ardently desire reassurances that our currency won't be further tampered with. They question the ultimate outcome of Washington's attitude towards "outside unions" and towards employe representation and there are other aspects of the current situation and the outlook which arouse in them serious misgivings.

[illegible] sulkily withdrawing [illegible] they—or most of them—are convinced that the wisest course is to strive to counsel and co-operate with President Roosevelt to the utmost practical limit, to guide social legislation along prudent paths rather than to oppose it blindly, to come into the open hereafter and express their views frankly and publicly.

They have no intention of throwing up their hands in disgust and quitting. They know that the game must go on, so they are determined to play ball—and to exer[illegible] influence to have [illegible] workable, effective rules formulated.

It is taken for granted in the business and financial world that the new deal will not be repudiated at next month's elections.

It is taken for granted, also, that between now and then President Roosevelt will not greatly alter his stand on vital questions.

But there is growing hope that, the elections over, President Roosevelt may begin to steer a course less calculated to keep employers, investors and others acutely worried over governmental activities and that he will call into intimate counsel fewer classroom theorists and more men of experience and achievement.

Here's hoping!

In order to facilitate the computation of margins under the regulations of the Security Exchange Act, the Boston Evening American now carries the low since July 1, 1933, instead of the low for the year. The Securities Exchange Act provides that until July 1, 1936, the lowest price at which a security has sold since July 1, 1933, shall be considered as the lowest market price in the preceding 36 months. After July 1, 1936, the Act provides that the lowest price in the preceding 36 months will form the basis for margin computation.

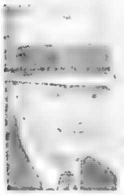
Dizzy Dean Wills Big Sixth Saves Him From Yanking

By AUSTEN LAKE



Austen Lake

DETROIT, MICH., OCT. 4—AFTER WAITING for a quarter of a century for a sight of World Series baseball on their own home heath, Detroiters, ulstered and bundled against the chill back [illegible] from [illegible] like what they [illegible].

And small wonder! The [illegible] crowd, [illegible] and [illegible], sat and watched its [illegible] idolized [illegible] fall apart like so much crocked glassware, so that Manager Mickey C[illegible] had to spank them publicly in the middle of the infield.

It was painful, and the massed roars that [illegible] the [illegible] being of the crowd in the early moments trailed off to [illegible].

D[illegible] the Tiger [illegible] nerves [illegible] more to beat [illegible] than the swaggering, cocky Cardinals did to beat them.

SO THIS MORNING when I saw him, Cochrane was in an evil [illegible]. There was a charred look around the edges of his eyes, as though inner fires had burned through his shell during a night of sleepless brooding. He was wondering, I gathered, whether the crowning achievement of his baseball career, the icing on his major league case, was going to be denied.

"My kids choked," he said frankly. "One of them— [illegible] first two innings didn't seem real. I was [illegible]

I was sore," continued Mickey, and his low voice sounded as though he were talking to himself. "My first impulse was to blister them good in the clubhouse. But I thought, 'W[illegible] They feel [illegible]. Tomorrow's the time.' So I held it.

"But this afternoon I'll have a piece to speak. They'll be mad. Mad at me and mad at themselves when I get through. And the madder they are the better I'll like it. It'll take away their nervousness.

COCHRANE SAID that a [illegible] decision to start the veteran old wheel horse, Alvin C[illegible] due to the greenness of his team and the thought that the pitcher's seasoning would be steadying.

"As a first experience, a World Series is like nothing else in baseball," said Mickey. "You get an overpowering feel of the importance of little things that scarcely mattered before.

"I felt that way when the Athletics played the Cubs in 1929, and the only thing that helped us was the BIG MAD we got when the Cubs turned on the heat and razzed us."

That was the series in which the rival young men poured each other over with lurid insults, so loudly spoken that Judge Landis, himself in person, stalked down the underground subways to the back of each dugout and warned Joe McCarthy and Connie Mack that he would withhold all salary checks unless, etc, and so forth.

Dizzy Dean, on the other [illegible] the afternoon. Far from overwork—four [illegible] in eight days and all of them high pressure title games—had left their imprint. His manager, Frisch, told me he was more than a little anxious during the middle innings.

"I kept asking him whether his arm was getting heavy. He was grooving more pitches than usual. [illegible] one of them, as fat a pitch as I ever saw into the left field bleachers.

"But I knew Dizzy was a money player, cocky enough to punish himself to the limit. He had said a lot of goofy things in print and he wouldn't want to be shown up.

"Even so, I was saying from time to time: 'Should I, or shouldn't I?' I might have lifted him before the end of the game if it hadn't been for that four-run sixth. I figured he was safe."

IT IS NO SECRET that there is bad blood on the Cardinals Dizzy is bitter against Captain Leo Durocher for one thing, be-

MORENZ TRADED TO HAWKS

By Associated Press

Montreal, Oct. 4—A month before the opening of the National Hockey League season, the big winter [illegible] of life with the news of the biggest and most complicated player-deal [illegible].

Three clubs, the Montreal Maroons, Montreal Canadiens, and Chicago Blackhawks, were involved with the Hawks getting the leading figures.

Howie Morenz, for 11 years star center of the Canadiens, was shifted to Chicago along with Goalie Lorne Chabot and Marty Burke. After threatening to retire from the game because he was not consulted about the deal, Morenz changed his mind and decided to report at Chicago Saturday.

In return Chicago released Leroy Goldsworthy, Roger Jenkins [illegible] Cain.

In [illegible] for these two the Maroons [illegible] Nelson Crutchfield, last year's McGill University star. The Canadiens have signed [illegible] another [illegible] Maroons to play [illegible].

'Tigers Are Easy for My Boys'--Pa Dean

By Universal Service

Houston, Tex., Oct. 4—"Shucks, those Tigers will be easy for my boys!"

An elderly man, who scarcely could restrain his pride and elation [illegible] Dizzy Dean over the Tigers in Detroit, could not forbear this remark as he boarded a bus for St. Louis to see his two sons finish the job which one of them, Dizzy, started for the Cardinals in Detroit.

And he was able to bask in the reflected glory of the precocious pair more than the ordinary father for it was he who taught them some of their pitching tricks as soon as they began to run around the Dean farm near Holdenville, Ark. "Pa" Dean said about his own days as a ball player.

"I started playing when I was 15. I was in Rolla, Mo. I was [illegible]. One game stands out in my memory. We were playing for six balls and bats and a dinner, and I had a badly split hand.

"The first time I was up, I hit a triple, bad [illegible] handed, and we won the game."

"Pa" Dean said he put a baseball in the hands of Dizzy and Paul when they were toddlers and taught them how to "chuck."

He used to pitch, himself, as well as play the infield. He played ball for 30 years, 10 as third baseman for Fort Smith in the Western League. He umpired later.

"Pa" just can't see the Tigers at all. He was sure Dizzy would trim [illegible].

"The Tigers will be easy for my boys the rest of the series just as they were in the opener. Paul and Jay pitch their best [illegible]."

This remark brought out the fact that Dizzy's name is not Jerome as he is called on the few occasions when he is not called Dizzy, but Jay Hanna Dean—Jay for Jay Gould and Hanna for Mark Hanna.

Could Have Fielded Better With Busted Leg—Rabbit

Detroit, Oct. 4 (INS)—Here's some veteran ball players' reactions to the World Series:

[illegible] of National League [illegible] players, who has been out all year with a broken [illegible] promises to be back on the job with the Braves next spring: "I could have fielded better with my busted leg in a cast than those Tiger infielders did."

LEFTY O'DOUL of the Giants, here en route to Japan: "The Tigers looked like we did for the last six weeks. I've seen enough of that kind of baseball. I'm heading west."

WALLY PIPP, Lou Gehrig's predecessor at first base for the Yanks and now a radio broadcaster: "I hate to think what the old Yanks under the Miller Huggins would have done to either of these teams."

BABE RUTH [illegible] "With that [illegible] never get us out."

CASEY STENGEL, Dodger manager: "They looked like some of my boys on one of their real bad days. One more game like that first one and I sign the gang up for Brooklyn."

Cards Sold Out

St. Louis, Oct. 4—A complete sell-out for World Series games here tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday, was reported today by Cardinal officials.

Every box and grandstand seat has been sold, it was announced, leaving only pavilion and bleacher seats, which will not go on sale until the day of each game.

A pavilion seat costs $3.30 and a bleacher seat $1.10.

"TACK" HARDWICK ON STAFF

Hardwick Signs With American All-Stars

Tack Hardwick, former Harvard back and end, and one of the greatest gridmen of all time, taps out his first story for readers of the Boston Evening American. Tack has joined the All-Star sports staff of the Evening American as football editor. Read his accounts of the nation's favorite fall sport this season. An All-America player once, he now is an All-America observer, and he'll give you and you a great series of articles that will cover all important angles of the game. (Picture by Boston American Staff Photographer.)

HARVARD GREAT TO WRITE FOR AMERICAN

By Jack Conway
(Sports Editor Boston Evening American.)

"Tack" Hardwick, Harvard's greatest all time football player, has been appointed Football Editor of the Boston Evening American.

Hardwick is a brilliant writer as well as an authority on the gridiron game. He will tell readers of this newspaper in his graphic style the "inside" story of the major football games. He will take you behind the scenes and tell you how the big battles were won and lost.

The late Percy Haughton, Harvard's most famous football coach, was once asked who was the greatest football player that ever represented Harvard.

"'Tack' Hardwick", was the quick reply. "He could do anything on the gridiron. He was a great back, a brilliant end, and always worked for the interests of the team."

Hardwick's first article on football will appear in next Monday's Boston Evening American. It will be rich in football information, and will carry the authority that goes with his high ranking among the leading minds in football.

ALL-TIME ALL-AMERICA

The Boston Evening American selected Hardwick as its Football Editor on account of his knowledge of the game, his fearlessness and his ability to write his own "copy."

Hardwick does not require the services of a "ghost" writer. He sits down at a typewriter and pounds out his own story like Damon Runyon, Austen Lake, Bill Grimes, Dave Egan, Max Kase, and the other famous sports authorities who contribute regularly to these pages.

You will find the Boston Evening American's new Football Editor's name in the Harvard class book of 1915 as Huntington R. Hardwick. "Tack" is the nickname he picked up as he gained fame as a football player at Groton and later at Harvard.

"Tack" played football three years on the Harvard varsity. He starred as a halfback and at end. He was Walter Camp's selection as an All-America halfback. He was later named halfback on the All-America team for all time.

Hardwich played football with such famous stars as Eddie Mahan, F. B. Bradley, Stanley Pennock, Walter W. Trumbull and Charley Brickley.

And in the opinion of Percy Haughton he was the class of them all.

He also excelled in baseball and track sports while at Harvard.

JOINS LITTLE, HANLEY

Hardwick was associated with Hayden, Stone & Co. for many years. He is now with Doremus & Co., a leading advertising agency.

He is married and lives with his wife, Margaret S. Hardwick, daughter of the late Galen Stone, and his daughter, Peggy, in Brookline.

I believe the addition of Hardwick to the list of famous writers now on the staff of this newspaper places the Boston Evening American first in the football field.

Lou Little of Columbia and Pat Hanley of Boston University, are regular contributors to the sports columns of this newspaper.

Then there are the expert and well written football stories of the brilliant Austen Lake, Bill Grimes, Walter Kiley, Dave Egan, Damon Runyon and Bill Corum.

I know you wil enjoy Hardwick's first story which will apear in next Monday's Boston Evening American.

Dizzy's Shadow Seems to Terrify Detroit Infielders---Runyon

Owen, the third baseman, gets [illegible] for two, Gehringer, Rogell and Greenberg are blackspotted one each.

It is a sad, sad exhibition for 45,505 Detroit baseball fans who arrive at Navin Field brimful of zest, enthusiasm, good wishes and cheers for their beloved Tigers, champions of the American League.

DIZZY FADES TOWARD END

Before the Tigers have ceased shaking and shivering and butter-fingering the baseball, the National League pennant winners have enough runs to give them a big lead that they constantly increase from inning to inning, though the shadow of the mighty "Dizzy" Dean is fading to a mere "boo" toward the finish.

In the picturesque accents of Oklahoma Jerome Dean himself remarks after the game that he was out there "with [illegible] much."

The Tigers banged his delivery for eight hits, one of them a home run by Hank Greenberg, but in the meantime the Cardinals are knocking 13 hits out of Alvin Crowder, Fred Marberry and Elon Hogsett.

These hits, plus the inexplicable early stagefright of the Detroit infield, tell the tale—a dolorous one for Detroit ears.

It is the only earned run of the four runs scored off Alvin Crowder, who has the misfortune to be pitching when the Detroit infielders began mushing up fielding chances.

DIZZY DOMINATES SCENE

Jerome Dean strikes out six Tigers, and he strikes a couple of them out at the right moment, notably Hank Greenberg with two runners on the bases. Jerome has Hank hitting at his fast ball after it passes the plate.

Winner of 30 games this year, and working almost every other day the last month of the season, it is only to be expected that the fire is commencing to burn a trifle lower in his pitching.

But in general, Mr. Jerome "Dizzy" Dean dominates the scene. The Detroit crowd applauds the stringy young fellow, able to admire a great performer even in disappointment over their own players.

cause Leo incriminated him during the Landis hearing last month when the pitcher was on trial for insubordination.

There are cliques, too. Those who side with and against Frank Frisch, who until lately has been a martinet, employing the tactics of a police sergeant.

But the common cause and the sudden drive into the series has dampened the smouldering fires, and maybe extinguished them for all time so that the team is clicking as a smoothly polished, well-oiled motor.

IT IS ODD that a team, like the Cardinals, which was momentarily in danger of shearing off its body bolts through internal friction less than a month ago should be purring like a contented kitten now, while the Detroit outfit, which was one sweet-tempered brotherhood so lately, is blowing a fuse and beginning to look sidewise at each other.

* * *

"SEVERAL WEEKS AGO," I said to Cochrane, "you stated publicly that Schoolboy Rowe would be your starting pitcher. Why did you change your mind?"

"Rowe was nearly exhausted," replied Mickey. "He took some terrific lickings toward the end. Every day of rest counted.

"And I figured if I slid by with Crowder, I'd have an overwhelming advantage with Rowe next and Bridges to open in St. Louis, where he has always been successful in Sportsman's Park."

But the battle plan is snarled up now. The Cards have a full head of steam, while the Tiger boilers are low.

It is possible that Sam Breadon's worst fear, the winning of the series in four or five games by his own Cardinals, and the subsequent loss of club profits, may come to pass.

I suspect Sam would rather lose the series in seven games and win the profits.

MRS. VARE, MISS VAN WIE ADVANCE

B. C. H. ELEVEN, GREEN, FACES DORCHESTER

By Bill Connell

Eight stiff games face the Eaglets, with five Boston foes on the card. The schedule unfolded today, with Dorchester the first B. C. H. foe at Fenway Park. Boston Latin at Fenway a week hence, and then Cambridge Latin, Boston English, Boston Commerce, Brookline, Fairhaven and Roxbury Memorial fill the bill.

TWO 135-POUND BACKS

That's the story—a moderately heavy line, light backfield, with little experienced bracing material. Coach McManus will be performing another of his great feats of construction if he gets that team through unbeaten.

However, there are reasons for hope on the Eaglets' side. Bobby Ryan, letterman halfback, who showed streaks of excellent football in '33, is nearly ready for duty, after a layoff because of injury. Some of the subs are developing, and are forcing the regulars to improve to retain their jobs.

Art Noonan, Richard Curnane and Ed Kiernan are tops on the sub wing list; Ed Connors and Rufus Clark, the latter a 190-pound, 6-2 youngster, head the sub tackles; Jim Hughes and John Harkins have the call at guard; while John Hart and Ryan will be backfield replacements.

LONG RIDE TO FIELD

That sub list is brief. Coach McManus must condition his first team to iron man hardness with so few spare parts. But he has done that before now, and can again. He will mould a few more able second stringers, to field one more of the colorful teams he's been producing at B. C. high for the past five years.

McManus' B. C. H. boys labor under the same handicaps facing Boston public secondary schoolboys. They've a hard day in class, a long ride to Franklin Field for practice, a long trek home to a late evening meal and a long evening's study.

It's a hard program, but it builds rugged teams that have their loyad followings year after year. You may see them in the stands any time you watch the Eaglets fighting along to grid success.

FAVORITES WIN FOURTH ROUND MATCHES

By International News Service

Chestnut Hill, Pa., Oct. 4—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Philadelphia, and Virginia Van Wie, of California, defending champion, swept to victory in the fourth round of the women's national golf championship today, Mrs. Vare triumphing six up and five to play over Mrs. Burt Weil, Cincinnati, and Virginia shooting a five-and-four victory over Frances Williams, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City rounded the turn one up on Mrs. Leona Cheney of California in the fourth round of match play.

The card:

Mrs. Hill, out—3 5 6 4 5 4 5 5 3—40
Mrs. Cheney, out—
4 5 5 5 5 5 4 4 5—42
(Mrs. Hill, one up.)

They were closely followed by Dorothy Traung, San Francisco, and Mrs. Carl H. Donner, Baltusrol, with the former stroking her way to a three-hole lead as they left the ninth green.

The card:

Miss Traung, out—
4 4 3 4 5 4 5 5 3—42
Mrs. Donner, out—
6 5 6 4 4 5 5 5 6 9—45
(Miss Traung, 3 up.)

Glenda Collett Vare, Philadelphia, was shooting beautiful golf against Mrs. Burt Weil, Cincinnati, who was trailing Mrs. Vare by a three-hole margin at the turn.

The card:

Mrs. Vare:
Out ......4 5 5 4 5 4 4 5 3—39
Mrs. Weil:
Out ......4 5 5 4 7 5 4 6 3—43
(Mrs. Vare three up.)

Meanwhile, Virginia Van Wie, defending champion, was having her troubles with Frances Williams, former eastern title-holder, although Virginia was able to walk off the ninth green with a two-hole lead.

BECCALI TO GET STADIUM TEST

Luigi Beccali, Italy's Olympic 1500-meter champion, will lead 50 stars of the Italian track to the Harvard Stadium tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 to engage with a group of local stars mustered by Win Marling, B. U. track mentor.

Beccali will face Mort Jenkins of Tech and Gay Estes of Harvard in the 1500 meters, and later will run the 800-meter leg of the 1600-meter medley relay against Ivan Fuqua, formerly of the University of Indiana track team.

The other big race of the meet will find Joe McClusky, ex-Fordham ace, and Bobby Playfair, Harvard, matching strides with Umberto Ceratti and Piero Fusarpoli of Italy.

Spitz, N. Y. U. high jumper of international note, is expected to have an easy time with the foreign jumpers.

TERRIER LINEUP UNSETTLED

There are many "ifs" and "buts" connected with the Boston University starting line-up for its first home game against the University of New Hampshire Saturday. Coach Hanley has a long list of injured and he will not know definitely until tomorrow how many will be able to play.

At present the line-up is somewhat jumbled about. Sid Borofsky, who has been working at guard all fall, is slated to start at left tackle in place of Irving Gross, who has been moved over to Captain Abodeely's spot at left guard.

Abodeely is formerly a center and as Coach Hanley's star pivot man, Sam Lourie has a bad shoulder, and Elmer Russell, who is rated practically on a par with Lourie, has a broken finger, and the center position is bothersome.

The result is that if Sam Lourie is all right Abodeely will start at left guard and Gross will be held in reserve. Otherwise "Aba" will be over the ball and Gross will start.

Homer Beorosky will start at right guard if his shoulder feels right; otherwise Charles Gubellini will win the honor. Another "if" position is right end. Dick Van Iderstine has a dislocated finger which will be taken out of a splint tomorrow. If the injured member is still bothersome, either Russ Lynch or Harold Levenson will get the call.

COLLEGE FOES IN REDSKINS' OPENER

A rivalry dating back to Boston College-Fordham College competition, will flare anew Sunday afternoon as the Boston Redskins open their home season with the New York Giants at Fenway Park.

Flavio Tosi of Beverly, one of last year's greatest wings when at Boston College, will be on one end for the Redskins, while Johnny Del Isola of Everett, husky blond pivot man from the Fordham Rams, will alternate with Mel Heim in the Giants' lineup.

Tosi made a tremendous hit with Coach Lone Star Dietz in the recent game with the Brooklyn Dodgers. He tackled with fury and showed a keen ability at diagnosing the enemy passing attack.

In the closing moments of play, he pulled down Shipwreck Kelley after the Dodgers' star seemed headed for a tochdown with an intercepted pass tucked under his arm.

All week, Dietz has stressed forward pass defense. It is safe to say that despite the ability of Harry Newman of the Giants in this department, the Redskins will not again be caught napping as they were last Sunday when Chris Cagle, former Army star, tossed one that meant the winning touchdown.

GIFT OF ROSES CLASHES WITH CRAZY JANE

The Percy M. Pike colorbearer will be racing over a longer distance than he has traveled recently, but it is quite within the realm of his staying powers. Under the light impost of 105 pounds and with M. Peters at the helm, Indiantown should make every pole of the journey a winning one.

GLORITONE, FLAGTIME, CALGARY KAY

FIRST RACE—Three-year-olds and up, claiming, $800, six furlongs:

8	Gloritone	111	Robertson	3-1
9	Flagtime	x106	King	5-2
18	Calgary Kay	x100	Lynch	8-1
13	Rosepath	x102	Peters	6-1
1	Karonite	110	Helm	8-1
15	Sarsita	114	Elston	10-1
14	Golden Effort	x101	Lynch	10-1
3	Boston Idol	102	Haines	20-1
6	Viadex Belle	106	Snyder	20-1
7	Mathias	110	Sage	20-1
2	John Bull	x104	Pyror	20-1
10	Haymulus	106	Landolt	20-1
4	Williford	109	Manger	20-1
5	The Rake	114	McTague	20-1
11	Fair Blanche	x101	Knott	20-1
12	Hero Olga	107	Rose	20-1
16	Edie	107	Vail	20-1
17	Little Cain	106	Knezsl	20-1

GLORITONE, a veteran with a smattering of class, looks as good as anything else in this affair. The son of The Porter is well suited by the distance and will be encountering the poorest lot that he has met at the meeting. FLAGTIME may have been a dead short horse when he finished third behind Sunny Sadie and Gypsy Chief a few days back. That was the High Time colt's first effort in over a month and should have done him a world of Good. CALGARY KAY is dropping seven pounds off his last effort, which was a third, and is entitled to some consideration.

MORHEART, HAPPY SCOT, OLD BALDY

SECOND RACE—Three-year-olds and up, claiming, $800, five furlongs:

3	Morheart	114	Landolt	3-1
2	Happy Scot	113	Haines	4-1
5	Old Baldy	x112	Maschek	4-1
18	Pana Franks	x109	Peters	4-1
8	Uppercut	109	Schaefer	6-1
1	Orpheon	114	Robertson	10-1
6	Sunny Sadie	x107	Lynch	15-1
9	Liquer	x112	King	20-1
7	Onside	113	Critchfield	20-1
4	Nimule	x104	Pikor	20-1

The five furlongs of this affair should prove right down Morheart's alley. The MORVICH mare drubbed the speedy Kai-Finn over the same distance about a week back. A. Robertson, who is riding in excellent fashion, will have the leg up. HAPPY SCOT experienced a rough journey when he finished third behind Chain and the top one last out. But for being shut off turning out of the back lane, the one time handicap star would have been much closer. OLD BALDY has been freshened up a bit since his last effort and should go well.

CIVIL WAR, HARDATIT, UNLAWFUL

THIRD RACE—Two-year-olds, claiming, $800, five and one-half furlongs:

3	Civil War	x109	Maschek	5-2
5	Hardatit	x99	Peters	4-1
1	Unlawful	103	Helm	6-1
2	New Flag	108	Robertson	6-1
4	Charlie Dawn	x101	King	4-1
7	Hardware	103	Haines	6-1
8	Silent Dawn	107	Critchfield	20-1
6	Queen Helen	105	Landolt	20-1

CIVIL WAR, a bullet away from the barrier, turned in an excellent performance to place to Synod last out. Molly Greenock, one that finished a neck in back of her, came right back to drub a field of this caliber with ease. Off Molly Greenock's performance Civil War shapes up as a standout. HARDATIT was the medium of a last minute plunge in that Synod race, but finished back in the ruck after being pinched off at the far turn. Mayhap that the Baroni colorbearer will experience better racing luck in this affair. UNLAWFUL is in under the feather impost of 103 pounds and looks best of the others.

CLOTHO, ISAIAH, BLUE DAY

FOURTH RACE—Congressman Rogers Claiming Handicap, $1200, six furlongs:

6	Clotho	114	Robertson	2-1
3	Isaiah	115	Maschek	2-1
5	Blue Day	118	Landolt	4-1
4	Hokuao	101	Haines	6-1
2	aGold Step	109	King	8-1
1	aKhamseen	101	Griffin	8-1

aG. E. Ewing entry.

This is by far the toughest race of the day. Not much to choose between the six entries. CLOTHO, a slow breaker, is favored by an outside post position and should be along in time to snare the lion's share of the spoils. ISAIAH drubbed the top one in the Souhegan handicap a few days back and should be difficult to reckon with even though he is picking up eight additional pounds. BLUE DAY appears well burdened with 118 pounds. But looms slightly best of the others.

INDIANTOWN, VESTED POWER, INSTIGATOR

FIFTH RACE—Three-years-old and up, claiming, $1000, one mile:

7	Indiantown	x103	Maschek	2-1
3	Vested Power	x97	Peters	4-1
5	Instigator	113	Robertson	4-1
2	Swatter	x112	Lynch	4-1
4	Manya	102	King	8-1
1	Tela	107	Critchfield	15-1
6	Coming Back	93	Helm	20-1

INDIANTOWN will have Vested Power to drub for main honors. The latter is in under the feather impost of 97 pounds and has been racing close up in recent starts. INSTIGATOR looks next best.

GIFT OF ROSES, CRAZY JANE, GAILLARDIA

SIXTH RACE—Three-year-olds and up, claiming $1000, six furlongs:

8	Gift of Roses	x103	Lynch	3-1
1	Crazy Jane	114	Landolt	3-1
5	Gaillardia	x106	King	4-1
9	Jesting	111	Robertson	6-1
7	Essential	111	Critchfield	8-1
3	Cutie Face	x102	Pikor	10-1
6	Piety	x102	Peters	15-1
4	Red Roamer	x106	Maschek	20-1
2	Flashing Thru	x102	Pryor	20-1

Gift of Roses, second to Clarify in the Stafford Handicap, last out, has been freshened up and the clockers report her as razor-sharp. Just a question of a smooth ride.

CRAZY JANE, a smooth-running mare, is right at tops, and may be attested by her last effort. The daughter of Haste had to overcome a world of early interference in that affair, but she won with her ears pricking. GAILLARDIA is a money possibility.

GRAND UNION, PORTCODINE, WILD DREAMS

SEVENTH RACE—Three-year-olds and up, claiming, $800, one and one-sixteenth miles:

15	Grand Union	x107	King	5-2
8	Portcodine	x107	King	3-2
14	Wild Dreams	112	Schaefer	4-1
3	Tenless	x102	Lynch	6-1
1	Boy Crazy	113	Robertson	8-1
12	Ipse Dixit	x98	Maschek	10-1
2	Light Breeze	113	McTague	10-1
13	Doorkeeper	x104	Bohn	10-1
10	High Rocks	x111	Peters	10-1
7	Daisaburo	112	Landolt	15-1
6	Buster Boy	106	Sage	20-1
11	Palatine	x107	Pikor	20-1
5	Just Rem'mber	109	Helm	20-1
9	Sisko	113	Critchfield	20-1
4	Easy Bid	x98	Pryor	20-1

If sent right back, GRAND UNION should not experience much difficulty in handling this lot. PORTCODINE, a good router, received his tightener in a six-furlong dash a few days back, and should take it all, providing the top one fails to start. WILD DREAMS, a beaten favorite last time out, shapes up well for the short end.

Giants Nose Out Pirates, 14 to 12

The New York Giants, who meet the Redskins in the Boston pro opener at Fenway Park Sunday, defeated Pittsburgh Pirates, 14-12, in Pittsburgh last night.

Harry Newman's place kicking gave the Giants the edge after a thrilling forward pass battle between the teams.

HIGH FINANCE		3.20	2.40
YENOOR			5.20

Queen Vic, hard pressed to take command in the opening strides, drew clear rounding the farturn, and rated along in front, held High Finance safe at the end. High Finnace, in closest attendance of the winner from practically the beginning, continued determinedly to the end. Yenoor moved up on the inside at the stretch turn, but was unable to reach the others. Lady Adair went well placed all the way, but was unable to keep pace in the closing drive. Goose Creek came with belated speed at the close. Dawn Flight was never a factor. Una was unable to reach the leaders.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs, purse $800, three-year-olds and up, claiming. Start good, won easily, place driving. Went 2:09, off 2:13. Winner—Cancel, ch. f. (3), by Canter-Seldom Seen, by Out of the Way. Trained by L. Haymaker. Time—1:00.3.

SUE TERRY	—	78.20	37.00
GOLDEN EFFORT	—	—	9.70

Cancel followed in closest attendance of the pace, went to the front when reaching the stretch and drew out through the last furlong. Sue Terry moved up stoutly in the last quarter-mile and closed going gamely. Golden Effort came with good speed in the last three-sixteenths. Lamp Black bore out badly after leaving the back stretch. Fashion Show had good early speed, but weakened in the closing test. Charles J., in close quarters early, was carried out past the middle of the track when Lamp Black tired out. Paddock was unable to reach the leaders. Panbula tired. Lee Gold was outrun after breaking slowly. Rosepath was outrun.

QUEEN VIC, 8-1 ROMPS HOME IN OPENER

By Dave Egan

Rockingham Race Track, N. H., Oct. 4—It was elegant football weather here this afternoon as the penies started to run once again.

And omigosh, as well as dear me, who popped in out of a clear sky but Bill Gallagher's Queen Vic, an 8-1 shot. She beat the 9-5 favorite Lady Adair, and the 9-5 second choice, High Finance, and did so decisively that there never was any question of the result.

Queen Vic, two-year-old daughter of Victorian, led every inch, foot, yard and furlong. Jockey Frank Baker did the riding, and did it in a most noble manner, especially to the satisfaction of those who had wagered two meg on the horse. She paid $19.40.

High Finance was second and Yenoor third.

38 TO 1 FOR PLACE

Oh me, oh my, what is all this? It is the second race, but what a race. As predicted, Cancel came home, just couldn't lose, as the experts had predicted. Then there was the highest kind of surprise witnessed here at this current meet when the tote board flashed the payoffs.

Sue Terry, a very, very much outsider, came racing home to pay the terrific price of $78.20 for a place ticket and $37.00 for a show ticket. Can you eeemagine that, and to add to the joy of some folks, Golden Effort paid $9.70 for a mere show ticket. Well, some people get all the breaks. Cancel paid $6.00 to win.

COLUMBIA, ELI GAME BEST ON SLATE

By Associated Press

New York, Oct. 4—The customary calm of the regular season football program in the East, where tradition demands a few tune-up games for the big teams before the start of the serious business of the season, is broken this week when Yale and Columbia open the season against each other.

Such a contest is rare along the Atlantic seaboard at this time of the year even though "big" games already have begun to dot the schedules for the rest of the nation. The only explanation for the early date seems to be that it was the only available spot on the program.

Columbia again figures to be one of the major football powers of the east despite the loss of a good many of the players who carried them to triumph in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

YALE UNKNOWN

Yale, with a brand new coaching setup, remains an unknown quantity but the Elis in a good season or bad usually manage to provide a real game for anybody's football team.

In contrast to this the other conservatives start off as usual. Harvard and Princeton face the customary curtain-raising opponents, Bates and Amherst. Penn starts against Ursinus; Syracuse meets Clarkson; Fordham opens with Westminster and Colgate with St. Lawrence.

Having started a week ago the easy task work continues for Dartmouth against Vermont, Brown against Rhode Island, Army against Davidson and Cornell against Davidson. Navy has a somewhat tougher prospect with Virginia, but the midshipmen figure to be too strong, and the same goes for Pittsburgh against its old rival, West Virginia.

WARNER OUTFIT PLAYS

A trio of newcomers to big-time football enliven the program with major international clashes as Pop Warner's Temple outfit takes on Texas A. and M. in a Friday game, George Washington makes a long Western trip to face Denver, and the same night and Manhattan takes on Kansas State Saturday.

The western conference opening furnishes a sharp contrast to the eastern program with such important encounters as Indiana-Ohio State and Iowa-Northwestern to help decide championship aspirations and other major clashes including Minnesota - Nebraska, Rice-Purdue and Marquette-Wisconsin. In the same territory there is Notre Dame's struggle with Texas.

BIG GAMES IN SOUTH

The southwest, while specializing in international trips, offers Oklahoma vs. Centenary, Arkansas vs. Texas Christian and Southern Methodist vs. Louisiana State. On the southern program are a flock of big games including Auburn-Tulane, Georgia Tech-Vanderbilt, Tennessee-North Carolina, Alabama-Sewanee and Clemson-Duke.

The Pacific coast program is topped by the usual early season scrap between California and St. Mary's with the Southern California-Washington State and Stanford-Oregon State encounters in the supporting cast.

FRIARS EXPECT TO HOLD H. C. SATURDAY

By Walter Kiley.

Providence, Oct. 4—Undaunted by the much heralded Holy Cross "Team of Destiny," Providence College puts on the final touches for its Saturday game with the Purple at Worcester, firmly convinced it has the manpower and the plays to give the Purple a merry fight for honors.

McGee, who takes over the duties relinquished by Archie Golembeskie, for nine years varsity coach, faces a difficult task. Yet the outlook looms bright.

Twenty of the best players of last year's team have been lost, either through graduation or by scholastic failures. So that only ten letter men are holdovers this Fall.

But there are 24 better than average sophomores on the squad, all members of the 1933 freshman team. And as McGee was freshman coach last season he knows what these youngsters can do.

The Friars will be only slightly outweighed by the giant Crusaders. Their strength lies mostly in their backfield, which is the biggest and most versatile in several seasons.

Omer Landry, sparkplug of last year's varsity, will be the mainspring of this year's quartet. The others who will will work with him are Soar, Vitullo, Sokolowski, Angelica, Lefebvre, Healey and Balzanelli.

Providence played a hard fought game with Holy Cross a year ago, losing 14 to 0. Several times the Friars had the chance to score, but were stood off by the giant Purple linemen.

Providence has had the Crusaders well scouted in the Purple's two games, with St. Anselm's and St. Joseph's. But it is doubtful whether or not the Worcester team was forced to show enough on those two rainy Saturdays to aid the Friars in their game on Saturday.

TIME SUPPLY AT PAWTUCKET

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 4 — The horse cars are rolling in Rhode Island. From Havre de Grace, Detroit, Texas, and Rockingham, by the hundreds are shipping in for Narragansett's big Fall meeting, which opens next Tuesday.

Racing Secretary Jack Campbell has been swamped with stable applications and is now awaiting the word from Walter O'Hara to erect new barns to handle the stables.

The clocking brigade was on hand this morning, getting ready to catch the early arrivals in workouts.

F. A. Carreaud's Time Supply, one of the fastest horses in training which has been named for the $25,000 Narragansett Special, came in today heading a string of 12 owned by the Texas sportsman.

TOM SOPWITH MAY RETURN

By Universal Service

New York, Oct. 4—The defending yacht Rainbow failed to comply with either construction or racing rules for America's cup competition, T. O. M. Sopwith, defeated challenger for the cup, declared as he sailed with his wife for England aboard the liner Aquitania.

Sopwith disclosed he had protested Rainbow's construction to the race committee before the competition opened. He did not say what his objections were.

His plans for another challenge are uncertain, he said, explaining:

"Whether we come back or not next year rests with the New York Yacht Club and the deed of gift by which the America's cup was given to that club.

"We would welcome the opportunity to come back next year with the same ship if conditions were changed."

Sopwith said he was leaving with a great debt of gratitude to the American public for hundreds of letters he had received asking him to return.

Winner to Get Big Match

The bad men of the mat, Ted Germaine, the South Boston Tiger, and Stewart Spears of Hyde Park will get together in the semi-final.

X-RAY

Examination, consultation and trial treatment absolutely free to all who call before Oct. 7th. The wonderful power of the X-ray and mercury quartz light treatment is accomplishing wonders in diseases of every description. No matter what your disease may be, remember Daniel J. Walsh, M. D., fulfills the above offer.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Mr. William Walsh, 15 Lincoln Park, So. Boston:—"I had stomach trouble for 22 years. I had been treated by many doctors in Canada and in New York City as well as other places. I took many stomach remedies but nothing helped me. I heard of Dr. Walsh through a Mrs. McCue, who said Dr. Walsh had helped her. I was so bad I thought I would die. So I had Dr. Walsh treat me. I improved rapidly under Dr. Walsh's care until I feel fine now. I have sent a number of patients to Dr. Walsh and I make this statement for publication in the hope of helping others who suffer as I did."
(Signed) William Walsh.

Advertising in Need of No Bureaucracy

ALBERT D. LASKER, formerly chairman of the United States Shipping Board, and an outstanding figure in the business and advertising fields, in a recent speech discussed the subject of advertising in a very illuminating way.

He was speaking in Boston before the Conference on Retail Distribution.

The efforts of the federal administration to curb advertising by arbitrary regulation and censorship were scored by Mr. Lasker as calling into being further extensions of our already bloated bureaucracy and involving new additions to the appalling number of bureaucrats, who cloud the heavens and cumber the earth.

From the very nature of bureaucracy, no matter, in Mr. Lasker's opinion, how honest or high-minded, it finally "places the dead hand of government on private initiative."

But perhaps of greater interest than this part of his address was the relation he traced between free advertising and a free press.

There has been a great deal of insincere and intentionally misleading stuff printed about deceptive advertising and the need of protecting the public against it.

As a matter of fact, there is not a reputable publication in the country which does not supervise its advertisements and, in effect, apply to them a censorship as rigid and far more effective than any which a governmental department or bureaucrat would be able to maintain.

There is constant rejection of proffered advertisements which do not meet the publisher's standards of good faith to his readers and of loyalty to his publication and calling.

Mr. Lasker called attention to the debt which the press owes for its freedom to the freedom of advertising.

IT is the revenue derived from advertising which has made the American newspaper the free and independent organ of opinion it long has been.

This independence, as Mr. Lasker says, "would die in proportion as advertising would die."

The first to go would be the country newspaper, which is the very backbone of our American democratic freedom.

This is undeniably true.

In support of his assertion, Mr. Lasker referred to the many foreign countries in which advertising in the modern sense is still in its infancy, and independent expression on the part of the press unknown.

Some day—and it is not far distant—we shall look back on the hostility to advertising displayed by the Department of Agriculture, its present secretary and his aide, Professor Tugwell, as among the most puzzling vagaries of these confused times.

Providence's Example

In 1933 Providence was the "safest city" in the 250,000 to 500,000 population class in the country. Fatalities have been reduced by more than 50 per cent. Injuries have decreased, too, especially those to children.

How was it done? By co-operation and planning. First of all, the city adopted the model traffic law suggested by the National Council of Highway Safety. Then a traffic engineer was appointed and every danger spot mapped and studied.

Police co-operation is perfect. Their equipment was modernized. Neatness was insisted on. Officers were trained in traffic problems.

But chief of all, the police became salesmen. They are out to sell the motorist the safety idea. They are out to get his co-operation, too. Abusive language gives way to courtesy. Explanations and "sales talks" replace "hard boiled" scoldings.

This Providence plan—it's something to think about.

Telling and Selling

"Library Week" will start October 21, by proclamation of Governor Joseph B. Ely. The idea appears to be to "sell" books to the public, to arouse interest now dormant.

The old saying goes that you can't judge a book by its cover. Meaning that the cover can't tell you all that is in the book.

But books, as publishers well know, can be "sold" to the people by their covers. That's why they have attractive covers when the publishers issue them.

Our librarians have seemingly not grasped the value of attractive covers. One judges this from the dull bindings when used volumes are rebound.

In this era of colors, we suggest, as our contribution to "Library Week," that library authorities brighten up their wares.

High County Costs

> "The vote on primary day has shown beyond question that the voters, both Republicans and Democrats, are dissatisfied with the increasing cost of county government."

The "county rings" are viewing the handwriting on the wall. They know their days are numbered, and that the end of what President Roosevelt has referred to as "ox-cart government" is close at hand.

A Disguised Levy

The charge of a half dollar made in Boston for a permit to have oil for a kitchen range burner is an example of disguised taxation.

Most cities and towns in New England have overlooked this little tax innovation, especially annoying to the home owner in that it must be renewed every year.

Maybe we'll have to have a "permit" to light matches next!

By the Rev. E. A. Pollard Jones, Methodist Church, Waterville, Me.

The Tide That Never Ebbs!

This devastating tide.
Encroaching more upon the shore
And spreading far and wide.

High water marks of other days
Are lying fathoms deep.
Beyond the sand and far inland
The rising waters creep.

Listen, World! -:- By Elsie Robinson

DOES A COMMON MAN OR HIS JOB COUNT TODAY?

Al Jones is sore.

Says he: "All this stuff you write about a person getting ahead is hooey! That sort of thing worked once, but the world's changed. You can't play a one-man game any more. There are too many people—things are too much organized.

Elsie Robinson

"Everything's Big Business now. Individuals don't count. They're just cogs in a machine. You can work your heart out now, but nobody cares. A fellow's got to depend on unions and strikes nowadays to get anywhere. And he's a fool to do more than he has to on any job.

"Maybe you never heard talk like this before," he concludes, with a final angry fling. "You writing people live in a protected world. You don't know what life is like for the fellow outside."

Don't kid yourself, Al. We know what life is like, all right. If we don't, the boss gives us a swell chance to find out—pronto! So I know what you're saying and why you're saying it, and—I'll even admit that a lot of it is true.

WORLD HAS CHANGED

The world HAS changed. We aren't living in holes or huts any more, or in little neighborly groups. We can't go around like cavemen—each fellow hunting for himself. We've got to play in with the gang.

And, just as a man seems lost in the scuffle, so does his job. One hundred years ago Pete Johnson made the best shoes in Greenfield. Everyone talked about Pete's shoes—said they outwore three pairs from any other cobbler.

Pete hadn't had much education—just worked himself up by sheer grit and 14 hours' plugging daily. "Elbow grease, common sense and gumption, that's all any fellow needs to make a success of himself in this world," said Pete.

Old Pete lived to see working hours drop from fourteen to twelve—to ten—to eight. When workers began taking Saturday afternoon off, he thought the world had gone mad. Today, if he were in the shoe business, he couldn't sell a whole shoe to save his life. He'd be standing beside a machine that tacked on a heel and did nothing else but. And he'd have times when he felt (as you're feeling now) that a common man and his job have become of less importance than the smallest screw in that machine.

But he'd be wrong—and so are you!

PART OF BIG TEAM

A man matters—and his job matters—and they'll keep on mattering as long as this earth lasts. The world has changed. We no longer are lone wolves. We're all part of a big team now—

BUT A TEAM IS NO BETTER THAN ITS INDIVIDUAL PLAYERS.

AS WATER CAN RISE NO HIGHER THAN ITS SOURCE, SO THE MASS CAN BE NO STRONGER THAN THE MEN WHO COMPOSE IT.

You may not seem to count, Al, yet the success of the whole human race depends on YOUR attitude and YOUR performance. And there isn't a day that you don't set YOUR mark, for good or ill, on history.

And not only do your efforts count for the fellow who is sharing the trail with you . . . they still are the biggest factor in determining the success or failure of your own life. Your life isn't determined by the things that happen TO you—it's determined by the things that happen IN you. In the long run, it isn't what life does to you that counts, but what you do to life.

FAILURE AND SUCCESS

You may have millions in the bank, but if you're bored and embittered in your own spirit you're a FAILURE. Or you may be a homeless vagabond, but if you're eager and excited about life and yourself, you're a SUCCESS. But the only way to stay eager and excited is to tackle everything that comes with all you have of interest, curiosity and pride.

For it matters little WHAT you're doing, Al—whether you're hunting grizzlies or tacking on a heel. The big thing is that YOU'RE doing it . . . it's YOUR job . . . and, by jiminy, you can't afford to LIE DOWN ON YOURSELF!

That doesn't mean that things aren't in a mess. They are. Nor does it mean that we shouldn't raise Cain bettering them. We SHOULD better them.

But you'll never make a worthwhile world, Al, unless you feel that YOU, YOURSELF, are the most worthwhile thing in that world—and then proceed to DO YOUR STUFF!

Our Friends' Faults -:- By Winifred Black

I have a friend, and a good friend she is, too. But the other day I suddenly discovered that she was stingy.

Winifred Black

Not just economical—or saving, but downright stingy.

I felt as I did when a beggar woman on the other side of the ocean suddenly opened her cloak and showed me a hideous wound in her breast.

I couldn't believe it, and I felt all at once a cold dislike—and I really had loved the stingy woman quite a lot.

It made me feel as I felt quite a long time ago when someone I admired and trusted told me a bare-faced lie.

I pretended to believe it, but I never believed another word that woman said again, and I haven't a doubt she has told me a hundred things that were perfectly true.

REMEMBER FAULTS

And then there is Alice. I've always liked Alice, but Alice is spiteful, there's no doubt in the world of that, she's spiteful.

Oh, she wouldn't set the house afire or kidnap the baby or try to take your husband away from you, whether she liked him or not, but she'll just do little mean spiteful things to make you uncomfortable for an hour or so.

And she'll do it when she really likes you, too. But she's mad about something or mad at somebody and she has to take her spite out on the nearest person.

Alice is all right—when she isn't mad.

You just have to keep out of her way when she is—that's all.

How small it is of me to remember these things, and forget the good traits of my good friend.

OVERLOOK OWN FAULTS

She always says, "Yes, indeed," to whatever I say, and then she goes to somebody else and says "No, indeed" in just the same agreeable way.

I like to be with Jane, she's so sort of smooth and pleasant, but I don't like her so very well—would you?

Now I wonder just what the stingy woman and the spiteful woman, and the cowardly woman think of me, and all my outrageous ways?

Do they like me because they think I am braver and kinder and more generous and more broad-minded than I really am?

Wouldn't they hate the sight of me if they knew all my faults and follies, or do they know them perfectly well, and like me a little bit—anyhow?

That would be nice and kind and human of them wouldn't it?

I think I'll try being nice and kind and human about them and their faults, too—just for a change.

PURPOSE

Just to get on together and live
In ways that are simple and sweet;
To know all our faults and forgive
And share both success and defeat;
To walk our small garden at eve;
Know sunshine and gray clouds and flowers
And still in each other believe
And rejoice in the joys which are ours.

Just to walk arm in arm through the years
Asking never too much of delight
Nor rebellious when trouble appears,
But sure that its purpose is right;
To cherish our hopes and our dreams
And accomplish some good with our lives,
Knowing kindness, though trivial it seems,
All forms of disaster survives.

Just to cling to each other and keep
The home warm and safe to the end,
Its joy, neither lavish nor cheap,
With a welcome for neighbor and friend;
To give with glad hearts what we can
And whether we lose or we gain
Still to cling to this purpose and plan
That steadfast our love shall remain.

Human Side of the News; About Bull Fighting

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF THE HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Death in the forenoon (to borrow Ernest Hemingway's excellent title for his book on bull fighting) has struck twice in the arenas of Spain, claiming one of the country's leading matadors and then in a most unusual way taking an innocent, if excited, spectator from his seat ten rows back in the stand.

The bull fight has no appeal to the Anglo Saxon mind. Certain aspects of it are revolting and unbearable for which reason the Latins of Italy, France and Portugal do not go in for it.

Yet in Spain it has flourished for more that nine hundred years since the day in the year 1040 that Don Rodrigo Diaz de Vivar proved himself the superior of the greatest in the ranks of the Moors.

DEATH BY THE RING

The present box office attraction is Juan Belmonte, rated a millionaire, who has returned to the lists after an absence of seven years. I am rather interested in this heavy set man, whose bowed legs hardly do justice to the velvet breeches and silk stockings which are standard equipment for a matador.

My first, last, only and brief appearance as a spectator in a Plaza del Toro was to see Belmonte when he was the toast of Madrid, Barcelona and Seville.

His comeback has been marked with triumphs and with the strange accident mentioned above when in delivering the death stroke to a bull his sword ricocheted from the animal's backbone to bury itself in the neck of the on-looker in the benches.

The matador who recently came to his end on the horns of the bull was Igancio Sanchez brother-in-law of the famous Joselito Gomez, who died in a like manner fourteen years ago. About two years after the demise of Joselito, I was in Spain for an extended stay. Already Senor Gomez was a legendary hero. Hemingway writes that he probably was "the greatest bull-fighter that ever lived." Belmonte at that time was his closest rival.

To draw a comparison with American sporting figures, it might be said that Gomez was Ty Cobb while Belmonte was Babe Ruth. Gomez was the dashing versatile type. With Belmonte it was purely a question of his strength and courage against the bull's.

BIG BULL KILLER

On May 16, 1920, Joselito Gomez stood in the arena at Talavera after having killed four bulls, bringing his total to 1,430 for his career of seven years which had earned him a fortune of a million and a half dollars.

The fifth bull of the afternoon was "Bailador" ("The Dancer"), so called for the dexterity he had shown during his training for the ring. The trumpet sounded and Bailador came out of the pen goaded to fury by the iron pin struck between his shoulders to carry the colors of his breeder. He snorted, pawed and switched his tail in the middle of the ring.

The picadors annoyed him with their lances and then the banderilleros drove their three pairs of colored sticks with their barb-like fish hooks into the animal's neck.

Again the trumpet sound for the entrance of the great Gomez. He bowed right and left to the cheers of the yokels, made his set speech dedicating the dead bull to some local dignitary, tossed his hat behind him and advanced to the fray.

The bull advanced too, towards the waving muleta, Gomez's short red cape under which his sword was hidden. The matador moved about on catlike feet. Suddenly he saw his opening and struck. Thus, on fourteen hundred and thirty occasions he had administered the death stroke.

BULL TOO QUICK

But this, the fourteen hundred and thirty-first bull was too quick for him. Right through the red cape into Gomez's vitals went the sharp horns of the black beast of Andulusia. It was a matter only of seconds and Gomez was no more.

The news of his death went through Spain like wildfire and within a few hours the country was in mourning as deep and poignant as that which comes to a people with the loss of a decisive battle or some great catastrophe.

The bull fighting season begins on Easterday Sunday with two contests a week in the rings of Madrid and Bacelona which seat 24,000 spectators.

Hospitals with operating rooms are built right into these larger coliseums. Six to eight bulls are killed in an afternoon along with twenty horses. The yearly figure is upwards of 1200 bulls and 6000 horses.

The show opens with a grand parade, bands playing and colors flying. The participants in the fight come under the general classification of "Toreros," from which we get the more common Italian equivalent "Toreadors."

The toreros are subdivided into picadors, banderilleros and matadors. The matador or "espada" is the kingpin on the lot. He hires his team of picadors and banderilleros and pays them small sums out of the $2000 which he gets for a big show.

The whole thing is a Roman holiday with the slaughter of the old broken-down, blindfolded horses, the fierce, thoroughbred bulls, and now and then one of the toreros.

It is hardly sport or a fair contest, and it is gratifying to learn that rugby football is getting a hold in Spain such as to threaten its popularity.

Trade With Canada

VINCENT MASSEY, former Canadian Minister in Washington, speaking before the Conference on Current Problems, referred wistfully to the diminished hold which commercial reciprocity has upon the present generation of both Canadians and Americans.

He spoke of "the sadly shrunken stream" of commerce which flows over the American-Canadian border compared with recent years.

Although the relations between the two countries—the "over the horder relations," as he called them—were satisfactory and friendly, he deplored the tariff obstructions to the natural flow of goods across the imaginary frontier between the two nations, as bringing losses which fall as heavily upon one people as upon the other.

It is difficult, however, to view hopefully the prospect of eliminating such obstructions or even of lowering the suicidal tariff barriers that impede our mutual commerce if the Ottawa agreements of 1932 providing for preferential tariffs between the British Dominions are to stand as they are today.

So long as the British Dominions are content to shackle their individual trade prospects for the sake of the mother country, it is difficult to see how they can escape the great loss which Canada is suffering in her American trade.

It would be a fine step in the right direction, however, if Canada and the United States, whose mutual interests outweigh any particular interest of either, could disengage themselves from the strangle hold of false trade conceptions and put their mutual commerce upon the same basis of complete reciprocity.

Canada has grown too big, too self-confident, too secure, to be a prey to the fears which blocked commercial reciprocity with the United States nearly a generation ago.

HERE is a great call for true statesmanship on the part both of Canada and the United States.

What an achievement for the two great democracies of the West to blaze the way for the world to the restoration of normal international trade!

Whatever agreements stand in the way are agreements which should not exist and never should have been made.
